TURK REJECTS PEACE TERMS

Commander-in-Chief Given Orders to Resume Fighting

OFFER OF ALLIES HELD IMPOSSIBLE

Prospect of Peace Fades as Effort at Armistice Comes to Naught.

Constantinople, Nov. 21.—The Ottoman government has rejected the terms for an armistice offered by the allied Balkan nations. Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander in chief has been ordered to resume operations.

The Bulgarian terms of peace are impossible, according to the Turkish grand vizier. Kiamil Pasha said:

"I received last night communication through the Russian ambassador to Turkey of the terms which the Bulgarians suggest for an armistice as a preliminary to the discussion of the terms of peace. The terms are impossible and unless they are radically altered the war will continue.

"The Bulgarians ask for the surrender of Adrianople, Scutari, Janina and the Thetalia lines."

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY.

Armies at Ease as Opposing Generals Discuss Armistice Terms.

London, Nov. 21.—The negotiations for an armistice between the Bulgarian and Turkish armies are now proceeding. The generals of the opposing forces are discussing the terms while their armies stand at ease. They occupy practically the same position as they did at the time the great battle along the Thetalia lines for the defense of Constantinople opened on Saturday night. Nothing has yet leaked out as to the course of the negotiations.

From available information as to the prevailing feeling in Constantinople it is anticipated that the terms offered by the allied Balkan nations will have to be harsher than they are believed to be

OHIO MAN CLAIMS THE HARD LUCK CHAMPIONSHIP.

Steuenville, Ohio, Nov. 21.—Martin O'Brien, of this city, today put in a claim for the hard luck championship.

Six weeks ago his brother John fell from a train receiving injuries that still confine him to a hospital. A week later another brother, Matthew, suffered a similar accident, dying at death's door until a few days ago. Subsequently O'Brien's wife was sent to a hospital seriously ill. Just as she had recovered her five year old child died of diphtheria. Today his brother-in-law, Leo McGinnis, fell from a train and received injuries that may be fatal. O'Brien is a cripple. He lost one arm in a railroad accident several years ago.

UNCLE SAM'S BIG RAID IS SUCCESS

Forty-three Women Accused in Charges of Misusing Mails.

FIFTY ARRESTS MADE

Washington, Nov. 21.—Results compiled today by the division of inspection of the postoffice department indicate that the country-wide raid made yesterday on persons charged with misusing the mails was remarkably successful. Telegrams are being received here of additional arrests, but all of the divisional officers have not completed their reports.

At noon today the names and addresses and records of 142 indicted individuals had been compiled. Of these 99 were men and 43 women. Forty-two business concerns of more or less commercial importance were included in the officials' reports thus far received, approximately 50 representatives of the concerns having been arrested. A large majority now have indictments pending against them.

ONLY A FIGURE-HEAD.

Minyard Expected to Give Government Valuable Evidence.

Washington, Nov. 21.—F. D. Minyard, formerly a broker here who was arrested in Cleveland Monday in the government raids of alleged get-rich-quick swindlers, is expected by government officials to provide them with valuable evidence. Minyard came here today.

Although Minyard was supposed to have been the head of Minyard, Malcolm & Company, the local branch of the alleged chain of brokers, it was stated at the office of the United States marshal today that he had been only a figure-head. Minyard declared he was penniless and intimated that he might tell of the operations under indictment. J. Gordon Malcolm is said to be in Canada.

All of the men indicted in the scheme will face the United States court here at the opening day of the February term, it was decided today.

GOES TO THE GRAND JURY.

Will Investigate C. H. & D. Wreck at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 21.—Prosecutor Frank Baker announced today that the Marion county grand jury would take up the investigation of the C. H. & D. wreck in Irvington, which was responsible for the death of sixteen persons Monday morning. Coroner Durham has prepared a list of witnesses whom the grand jury will summon, including those who have testified before him and others.

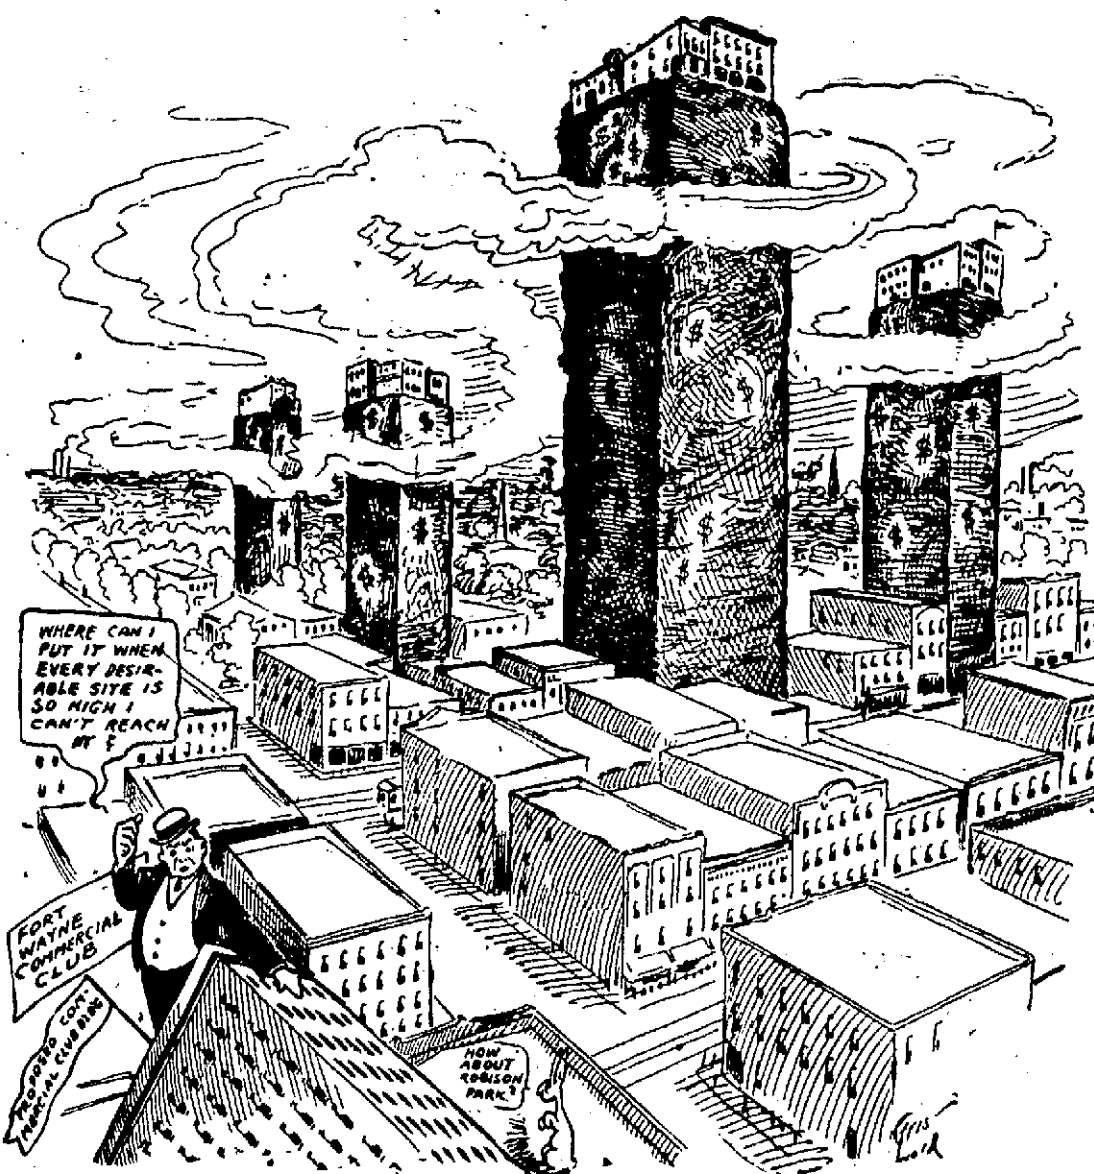

BIG QUARTERLY DIVIDEND.

Boston, Nov. 21.—A quarterly dividend of $12 a share was declared today by the directors of the Calumet and Hecla Mining company. The dividend rate is the same as that of the last quarter and brings the amount paid this year to $42 a share, the largest since 1907.

CRUISERS AT GIBRALTAR.

Gibraltar, Nov. 21.—The United States cruisers Tennessee and Montana arrived here this afternoon. They are coaling preparatory to proceeding to Turkish waters for the protection of American citizens in the Ottoman empire.

My! My! How Stuck-Up We're Getting!

SAYS BURNS' MEN LET 'EM GET AWAY

Dynamiters 'Were Cornered Five Months Before Capture.

M'MANIGAL ON STAND

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—How employees of W. J. Burns, detective, had the Los Angeles dynamiters "cornered" in a room in a boarding house at Conover, Wis., five months before the arrests were made and allowed them to escape was related by Orrie E. McManigal in resuming his confession at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today.

McManigal said in November, 1910, the month after the Times building was blown up, he and James B. McNamara had been hunting five miles from Conover when one day he missed James B. and later found him intoxicated in the boarding house talking to detectives. McManigal said, McNamara's description had been published everywhere and he had received mail at Conover, but after a discussion with the detectives they managed to escape. McManigal the next

MIX IT IN A WARM DEBATE

Gompers' Campaign Attitude Assailed in Federation Session.

MAX HAYES LEADS OPPOSITION TO IT

Declares Report of Committee Plainly Favors Democrats.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Protracted and excited debate occurred at this morning's session of the American Federation of Labor over a portion of the report by the committee on the president's report. The direct point of argument was the attitude of President Gompers during the recent campaign in which the committee concurred.

MAX S. HAYES, Labor Leader Who Opposes Gompers' Stand in Politics.

Delegates representing the radical wing of the federation took sides on the question. Max S. Hayes particularly assailed the committee's report. He declared he would not stand by the report, which he said favored the democratic party.

Jurisdictional Disputes Up.
Struggles over jurisdictional disputes with that of the white rats' factors' union taking precedence, are expected to occupy the attention of the American Federation of Labor convention today when the committee on adjustments

SAYS WOMAN WAS CHOKED TO DEATH

Physician Declares Death of Mrs. Szabo Not Due to Drowning.

STATE RESTS CASE

Goshen, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The state rested its case today against Burton W. Gibson, the New York lawyer charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Szabo, his client. Dr. Otto H. Schultze, of New York, a coroner's physician, testified that Mrs. Szabo died on Greenwood lake, July 16, of strangulation and not of drowning. Dr. Schultze's testimony corroborated that of two physicians who preceded him. By means of a photograph of the organs of Mrs. Szabo's throat, taken after their removal from her body, he illustrated to the jury his contention that she had been strangled by force applied to her throat.

Nearly a score of witnesses are under subpoena for the defense. Robert H. Elder, Gibson's chief counsel, had not indicated what defense would be, except that he would contend that Mrs. Szabo did not die of strangulation. "We do not undertake to show what she died of," he said. "She might have died of any one of many causes."

JACK JOHNSON TO FILE DEMURRERS

Pugilist to Make Reply in Five White Slave Charges.

SMUGGLING CASE UP

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight pugilist, today received permission from United States District Judge Carpenter to file demurrers to the five charges of violating the Mann white slave act pending against him. Three weeks were allowed in which to prepare the demurrers.

It had been expected when arraigned the pugilist would plead to the several indictments which charge him with transporting Belle Schreiber, a white woman, across different state boundaries for immoral purposes.

Johnson was represented by four attorneys in another case in the federal court and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of smuggling a diamond necklace on his return from Europe.

WERE GETTING INSIDE RATES.

Alleged Freight Discrimination in Favor of Steel Corporation.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Testimony in support of alleged discrimination in railroad rates in favor of the United States steel corporation was presented today by the government at the hearing in the dissolution suit against the United States steel corporation before Examiner Henry F. Brown.

John Muller, expert accountant, formerly with the interstate commerce commission, offered tables along this line as the first witness of the day.

MENTAL SLANTS STILL A PUZZLE

Bomb-Maker Declares He's Greatest Man Next to Lincoln.

INJURED WHEN A BOY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 21.—Carl Riedelbach, the bomb-maker who emptied the police headquarters when he walked in carrying enough dynamite to blow up a city block, continued today to puzzle scientists with his mental slants.

"Next to Lincoln, the emancipator, I am the greatest man in the world," said Riedelbach to the alienists. "Are not the papers full of accounts of me? I wanted a wife, children, home," he said. "Had life given me all of those I never would have thought of what I tried to do. There are many men like me."

The authorities have not yet determined just what to do with Riedelbach but it is probable that he will be committed to an asylum.

From a legal standpoint it is said a charge of having carried concealed weapons was the only one on which Riedelbach could be prosecuted.

INJURED WHEN A BOY.

Kicked on Head by Stepfather, Says His Mother.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 21.—A kick on the head administered by his stepfather when he was 12 years old, is responsible for the recent eccentricities of Carl Warr, the Los Angeles would-be dynamiter, according to his mother, Mrs. John Warr, who lives here.

"Often after his father kicked him," Mrs. Warr said today, "Carl complained he felt as if his head was so full of blood that it would run out of his eyes and he was never quite right from that time on. Before he was hurt he was not a bad boy."

Mrs. Warr explained Carl was the son of her first husband, John Riedelbach and was born in Germany 38 years ago. Riedelbach died and the widow, becoming a convert to the Mormon faith, emigrated with her seven children to Utah 24 years ago. Here she was married to John Warr.

CALL COLONEL'S SCHEME A CRAFT

Head of Alleged Society to Curb White Slave Traffic Nabbed.

WORKED MANY TOWNS

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 21.—"Colonel" W. S. Winchester, president of an alleged association for prevention of white slave traffic with headquarters in Cincinnati, who was arrested here last night, was arraigned this morning on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. He was selling cards of membership at $1 each.

Winchester came here from Crawfordsville and had a list of possible contributors at Evansville, Bedford, Anderson, Muncie and Vincennes, where he had been or to which he was going. His scheme also contained literature about his association. It also contained a letter from Harrison Dunseth, secretary, telling him the sheriff had attached the office in Cincinnati for rent following the exposure of the society in Cincinnati papers.

Winchester says he gets the title of "Colonel" from an organization called "Christian Soldiers."

NATION-WIDE HUNT FOR MAN

Police All Over Country Seek J. B. Koettters as Woman's Slayer.

"THAT'S EMMA," IS NIECE'S VERDICT

Identity of Hammer Victim in Chicago is Now Positive.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Police throughout the country hunted today for John B. Koettters, 36 years old, because Mrs. Emma Kraft, the Cincinnati widow, who came to Chicago to wed the man, was murdered, the police say, by Koettters in a downtown hotel and robbed of $5,000. The woman was beaten into unconsciousness with a hammer and died three days later without being able to tell who attacked her.

Positive identification of the slain woman was made today by Mrs. Anna Klokner, of Cincinnati, a niece of the victim, and her daughter, Florence, 18 years old. Mrs. Klokner and her daughter viewed the body in the county morgue.

"That's Emma," exclaimed Mrs. Klokner.

Women Tell of Woeing.

It was the story told by the two women relatives of the hotel victim that caused the issuance of circulars calling for Koettters' arrest. They said that he had been attentive to their aunt; that they believed he had persuaded her to realize on real estate that she owned and which she recently sold for approximately $5,000 in cash, and that they had assumed, when both Koettters and Mrs. Kraft disappeared from Cincinnati, that they had eloped.

Koettters is described as being about 38 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, from 180 to 200 pounds in weight, and of light complexion, with hair inclined to curl slightly. He has a dimple in his chin and a scar on his forehead.

Slayer Tall, Heavy Man.

After Mrs. Kraft was found unconscious in the Saratoga hotel, bellboys and clerks said that the man who had registered there with her as George Remmer and wife, Detroit, was nearly six feet tall and about 200 pounds. He was described as of light complexion and with curly hair.

The police say that Koettters at one time studied telegraphy and more recently had worked as an elevator operator in Cincinnati. He was last seen in the Ohio city on election day, Nov. 5. Mrs. Kraft, it was learned last night, had shipped her household goods to Kansas City after she sold her real estate, and stopped at the Palace hotel, in Cincinnati from Nov. 1 to Nov. 13, the day she is supposed to have left for Chicago.

Mrs. Klokner and her daughter declare

"ANYWAY, NOT OER YOUNG TO MARRY," SAYS GROOM, 73.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 21.—"Anyway, we're not 'oer young to marry," remarked Daniel N. Peterson, 73 years of age, at the office of the county clerk, asking for a license to marry Mrs. Sarah L. Ausmus, a nurse, same age. Both had been married before. "I guess we both were just lone some," the prospective bridegroom told the clerk.

Otto Riebel "Gets Even"

OTTO RIEBEL, Bert Keplinger, Charles Jacobs and Fred Vordermark, of the Pidgeon Millinery establishment, formed a hunting party which went after ducks last season. At that time Mr. Riebel was not what would be considered an experienced huntsman. Whether or not he has since gained the experience which would entitle him to such a description doesn't matter. It is sufficient to state that he was an apt pupil of Mr. Jacobs and Mr. Vordermark, who undertook to give him the necessary instructions. In order that Mr. Riebel might have the honor of bagging some of the fowl, Jacobs and Vordermark, after sighting a number of ducks in a sheltered spot among the reeds of the lake shore, ran back quietly and told Mr. Riebel just how to approach the place before shooting. Mr. Riebel, grateful and excited, prostrated himself in the weeds and crawled laboriously to the spot, fully a quarter of a mile distant. Raising his head, he was overjoyed to find the unsuspecting birds within easy gunshot. He waited, with fast-beating heart, until two of them had moved to such locations as he believed would enable him to bag both at one shot, and then blazed away. The ducks didn't seem to mind it at all. They were decoys.

The ducks didn't mind it.

quantity of atomized formaldehyde into the room. The sniffs and choke and snort that followed was quickly succeeded by a stifled yell for help. Of course, there was a general rush to the sleeping quarters from which the alarm came.

"Wow!" cried Vordermark. "I'm dying!" "What is it?" yelled Jacobs. "Oh! Oh! Oh!"

Of course the excitement was over almost as quickly as it came, because formaldehyde merely causes a frightfully stinging sensation, which passes away, without harm, as soon as the atmosphere is cleared of the element. And now Jacobs and Vordermark are "laying" for Riebel.

JUDGE'S DIGNITY IS GIVEN A JOLT

His Identity Hidden, He Hears Opinion of Lad in Cell.

CALLED "AWFUL GUY"

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The mythical ruler of Arabian Nights fame who disguised himself and went about his kingdom to learn what his subjects thought of him might have learned a little from Municipal Judge Newcomer.

John R. Newcomer, private citizen, yesterday learned what a certain youthful prisoner thought of Municipal Judge John R. Newcomer, and—well, it wasn't very complimentary to say the least.

Early yesterday morning before court convened and while he was only a private citizen the judge walked through the cellblock to a bubbly fountain for a drink of water. From one of the cells he heard a boyish voice lifted complacently.

"What's the matter, my boy?" asked the judge.

"Matter enough. I've got to be pulled up before Judge Newcomer this morning. Ain't that enough to make any body sore?" was the reply.

"Why, what's the matter with Judge Newcomer?"

"Oh, that guy's something awful. He won't listen to anything a fellow has to say. Here's what he'll say to me, 'Six months in the bridewell; good night! That's what he'll say to me.'"

Half an hour later the boy, his head hanging down, was led into court. The clerk called the case of George Nolan, charged with larceny and disorderly conduct. The boy raised his head and looked in wonder at the judge on the bench.

Prisoner Near Collapse.

"Why—er—why," he stammered and then almost collapsed. "I'm the fellow that called you all those bad names, judge, but I didn't know it was you then; honest I didn't," he managed to splutter.

The judge smiled and then heard the evidence against the boy.

"I'm going to surprise you, Nolan," he said finally. "Instead of sending you out to the bridewell for six months I'm going to send you only two weeks. That will give you time to forget the bad company you have been in."

"Say, judge," exclaimed the boy as he was led away, "I'm sorry I said what I did. You ain't the kind of a judge I thought you were at all."

GOES TO JURY TOMORROW.

Voluminous Record in Murder Trial at Salem, Mass.

Salem, Mass., Nov. 21.—Three quarters of a million words constitute the record of testimony in the trial of Ector, Glover and Caruso for the murder of Lawrence strike last winter, which has been on since Sept. 20, was to go to the jury tomorrow after District Attorney Atwell has closed for the commonwealth and Judge Quinn had delivered his charge to the jury. Today Attorney Mahoney expects to complete his argument on behalf of Ector, and was to be followed by the commonwealth's case for the defense on behalf of Arthur Glover and the Brooklyn socialist, Ector.

COTTON GINNING REPORT.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Cotton ginned here to Nov. 14 amounted to 10,291,432 bales, the census bureau announced today. Round bales included were 62,496 and Sea Island, 41,221 bales.

COUGHING BURST

BLOOD VESSEL. Says Danger Avoided and Cures Cough in 5 Hours.

A writer for the medical press states that coughing is responsible for the bursting of blood vessels quite frequently. A cough or cold means inflammation (fever) and congestion, and these in turn indicate that the body is full of poisons and waste matter. Simple relief as found in patent cough medicines, and a whisky, often result in more harm than good; as they cause more congestion. A tonic-laxative cough syrup will work marvels, and here follows a prescription which is becoming famous for its prompt relief and thorough cures. It rids the system of the cause, except it be consumption. Don't wait for consumption to grasp its victims, but begin this treatment which cures some in five hours. Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less, according to age.—Adv.

WAS ALLOWED TO JUDGE OWN CASE

Pat Shady Decided to Release Himself on Intoxication Charge.

CITY COURT DOCKET

Pat Shady, in city court this morning on a charge of intoxication, was allowed to preside as judge in his own case, and after profound deliberation, in which the law and the evidence were given mature consideration, he decided to release himself under an indefinite continuance. Shady has been working on the Ellison farm.

Fort Wayne seems to be in the grip of a wave of inebriety at present, or is afflicted with a swarm of wandering bums, as the police have picked up more than thirty drunk in the last two days. There were about fifteen in the city court this morning, and yesterday the docket contained eighteen. Most of them, however, are strangers, many of them working at the Walash elevation, or having just been shipped here from the larger cities for that work.

Harry Collins, a loiterer, was fined $15 and costs because he became abusive when alms were refused him at several private houses on the south side yesterday.

George Wilson and James McSwiney, charged with public intoxication, were each sent over for eleven days, while Cal Hammel, who was picked up with them, was allowed to go back to work.

Mike Ross, Peter Smith and Harry Howard, all drunks, created a disturbance around the interurban station, and each drew $1 and costs. The trio has been working for the Wabash at Aboit. William Hazzard, charged with drunkenness, went to sleep in the Nickel Plate station yesterday and got sore when the officer waked him up. He released a lot of profanity and was sent to jail for this privilege. William Kimmel, another drunk, got 11 days.

William Hilton and James Carmody have been getting stewed pretty regularly of late and Judge Mungovan sent them to jail for 15 days each.

Theodore Ciesielski, charged with being a fugitive from justice, is being held until tomorrow morning. The man is wanted in Toledo for the neglect of his children.

Several other drunks were let go, including John Martin, Harry Odell and Joe Patterson.

Billboard Men Solemnly Resolve at French Lick.

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 21.—Billboarders will in the future be more artistic in arrangement and effect if the promises made by the board of directors of the Advertising Men's association of United States and Canada are carried out faithfully. The directors, in session here this week, have prepared a higher classification of service. The next meeting of the directors will be held in Tampa, Fla. in March, and the national convention will be held in Atlantic City.

READY FOR LOVE FEAST.

Indiana Progressives to Meet at Indianapolis Tonight.

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—Members of the progressive state committee began arriving early for the meeting late today. It was said at headquarters this morning that every district would be represented. The "love feast" will be held tonight with Albert J. Beveridge, the defeated candidate for governor, and Frederick Landis, of Logansport, as the principal speakers.

George Ade was expected to be toastmaster. Arrangements have been made for several interurban cars to bring large delegations from nearby towns for the "feast."

SPEAKS AT HIGH SCHOOL.

Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts National Speaker for the Reform Bureau.

Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, of Washington, D. C., lecturer for the International Reform bureau, is in the city a guest at the Anthony hotel, and tomorrow morning at 9:45 o'clock will deliver a lecture to the scholars at the high school, his theme being "The Essentials of Manliness." Dr. Crafts is one of the great speakers of the country, and for many years has been prominent in the reform movements. He has spoken in this city several times in the past, and is a forcible and interesting platform orator.

WIDE INTEREST IN GOOD ROADS

Many Preparing to Attend Indianapolis Meeting in December.

EXPERTS ON PROGRAM

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 21.—Plans for staging the Indiana Better Roads convention at the German house in Indianapolis, Dec. 11, 12 and 13, are rapidly nearing completion and present indications are that there will be an attendance of between four and five thousand persons representing every county in the state. Public officials in each county have been asked to appoint delegates to the convention, as it will be purely an Indiana affair. The primary purpose of the convention is to crystallize an overwhelming sentiment in favor of a better road law in Indiana.

The convention will be given under the direct auspices of the commercial and civic bodies of Indianapolis, each of which has appointed representatives to serve on the general committee of arrangements. This committee plans to have each member of the general assembly attend the convention so that the law-makers may place their hands on the public pulse as it concerns the betterment of roads legislation in Indiana.

The program committee, of which D. M. Parry is chairman, has obtained the services of many good road experts in all parts of the country, including D. Ward King, of Missouri, inventor of the King road drag; J. M. Love, of Kansas City, president of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway association; Jesse Taylor, president of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, who also is the editor of Better Roads magazine; Logan Waller Page, director of the office of public roads of Washington, D. C.; Charles P. Light, of the American Highway association, New York city; A. G. Bachelder, president of the American Automobile association, New York city; Prof. W. K. Hatt and G. I. Christie, of Purdue university, Lafayette, and many others.

The exhibit to be made in connection with the convention promises to be one of the most interesting features. It will include a display by the United States government and another from Purdue university.

Ample time for discussion of the various questions arising in the convention will be allowed by the program committee.

ATTENTION, MOOSE!

A lodge of the Junior Order of Moose will be instituted tonight at the Moose hall, at 8 p. m. All young men between the ages of 16 and 21 years, are cordially invited to attend. Bennett of Anderson, will be present and lecture, a talk on the principles of the Junior order.

WILL LOCATE ON PACIFIC COAST

Messrs. R. E. and C. H. Pidgeon to Represent Wayne Knitting Mills.

SELL HOLDINGS HERE

Messrs. Ralph E. and Charles H. Pidgeon, for many years identified with the wholesale millinery trade in Fort Wayne, will shortly leave the city to become Pacific coast representatives of the Wayne Knitting mills, with offices in either Los Angeles or San Francisco. They have disposed of their holdings in the C. T. Pidgeon Millinery company to C. T. Pidgeon and will retire January 1 from the territory which they have covered as salesmen out of this city to embark in the new enterprise.

The territory over which they will have jurisdiction for the Wayne Knitting mills, embraces a very large area in the far west, and the opportunity is regarded as an exceptional one from a business standpoint. The fact, also, that the Messrs. Pidgeon are young business men of exceptionally high grade, assures the success of the venture from the outset. They are among the best known members of the large coterie of salesmen traveling out of Fort Wayne, and are socially prominent and popular.

AUTO TAX FOR ROADS.

Indiana Senator Is Preparing New Bill for Legislature.

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 21.—Senator J. J. Netterville, of this city, is preparing a bill to be presented to the next session of the Indiana legislature providing for an annual tax on autos, chauffeurs and automobile manufacturers, the proceeds to be applied to the improvement of the roads of the state. The bill will embody features of similar laws now in effect in Ohio, New York and Illinois.

RAIL MEN WILL AID LAWMAKERS

Association Favors Conferences in Advance of Legislation.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY

Chicago, Nov. 21.—It is helpful for the railways of the country to have representatives of the transportation industry confer with governmental bodies in advance of action on pending legislation affecting the railways.

This fact was brought out yesterday at the annual meeting of the American Railway Association at the Blackstone hotel in a report of the committee on relations of railroad operation to legislation. A recommendation for an extension of the scope of the work was unanimously adopted.

This conference plan, it was stated, is to be enlarged by the addition of state committees of operating officers to deal with such operating legislation as may be proposed during the sessions of state legislatures convening in January, 1913.

Will Have All Data at Disposal. These committees are to be independent of the present national committee, but are to have at their disposal all of the facilities, data, and records of that body in order that information accumulated may be available in all parts of the country.

Committees have been appointed for that purpose in each of the states of Arkansas, California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. During the sessions of nineteen legislatures meeting in 1912, 202 bills affecting railway legislation were introduced and forty-eight were passed. The committee says in its report that the policy of dealing openly and frankly with legislators is one which has thoroughly justified itself in federal affairs, and it is not unlikely that the same policy in the states may similarly justify itself.

Participating in the meeting were delegates representing 349 railroads, operating 264,001 miles of line.

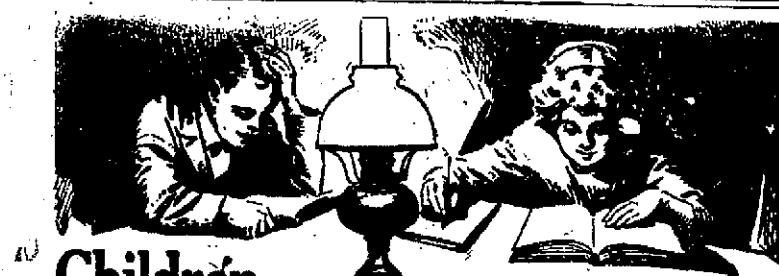

Julius Kruttschnitt Talks. In an interview following the closing session President Julius Kruttschnitt of the association, director of maintenance and operation for the Harriman lines, declared public opinion is the greatest factor in preventing railroad accidents. "Public sentiment," he said when asked as to the possibilities of automatic train stops and other devices, "is the most potent safeguard against accidents on any line."

"Much can be said in favor of automatic devices which make the operation of trains more safe, but you cannot eliminate the human element. We must at all rely upon the alertness of engineers, workmen, or whoever it may be, for careful, safe operation."

If a wreck happened and the employee offered the excuse that the automatic device failed to work properly or at all we still have the human element to deal with. Maybe the man who is supposed to look after the proper working of the device was at fault.

"On the Harriman lines we have adopted a policy of giving the widest publicity to accidents. Officials thus find themselves the target for public criticism. At the same time the employee is made aware of his part in the accident. Employees do not like that kind of publicity any more than do the officials. As a result they become more careful."

MADE BAD GUESS IN OWN FUTURE

Seeress' Forecast of Bliss With Blithe Stranger Proves Error.

LOVE'S DREAM FADES

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Six months ago Miss Emily Edyth Tannen was an unsophisticated fortune teller, occupying a commodious but unpretentious tent on the outskirts of Seattle, and teasing a reluctant livelihood from a grudging world by means of her unparalleled powers of clairvoyance, trance and mediumship, and psychometry, and unexampled skill in divining the mysteries of the future from curves, lines and fissures of the human palm.

Life for Miss Emily Edyth Tannen was happy and gay.

That was before William Cadrous, of 9232 Erie avenue, South Chicago, crossed Miss Tannen's path. It was one bright, sunny day early in June when Cadrous entered Miss Tannen's unpretentious tent. All nature seemed in tune. Mr. Cadrous was tall and dark, and Miss Tannen had no sooner looked at him than she recognized her true affinity.

He Wanted His Fortune Told. Mr. Cadrous wanted his fortune told and Miss Tannen told it with a wealth of detail and a prodigality of optimism that won Mr. Cadrous' enthusiastic interest.

She informed him, among other things, that within a short time he was to fall in love with a beautiful young woman of about Miss Tannen's general style of architecture and assortment of features, and Mr. Cadrous replied, at the same time looking admiringly at Miss Tannen, that by a strange coincidence, a presentation of the same sort had just impressed itself upon him—this is what Miss Tannen says.

A community of interest thus having been effected Miss Tannen and Cadrous became friends. Frequently, while he lived in Seattle, he called upon the fortune teller, and every time he called Miss Tannen drew from him rosy pictures of the future. At last, she says, they plighted their troth. Then, she declares, Cadrous went away to South Chicago to arrange for the wedding.

For a long time after this, says Miss Tannen, she and Cadrous corresponded. Cadrous' communications, she declares, were full of expressions of undying affection. Then one day he ceased to write. There was a heart-breaking and permanent hiatus. Then Miss Tannen silently folded her tent and came to Chicago.

Policeman Takes a Hand. She appeared before Lieut. Patrick McCauley at the South Chicago station last evening with tear stains on her cheeks and some of Cadrous' alleged letters in her hand. She asked the policeman to find her recalcitrant fiancé.

Lieut. McCauley investigated. He discovered that Cadrous is a married street car employe with two children. He ascertained also that Cadrous had recently dropped mysteriously out of sight. Miss Tannen, when told this bitter news, swore out a warrant for Cadrous, charging him with disorderly conduct. The police are now hunting for him.

"I guess she's not much of a fortune teller," said McCauley, "seeing she went so far wrong on her own, but she seems to be a nice girl."

UTAH ELECTOR TO VOTE FOR WOMAN

Mrs. Margaret Witcher to Get One Count for Vice Presidency.

WITH TAFT TICKET

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Margaret Zane Witcher, of Salt Lake City, probably will receive the electoral vote of Utah as republican candidate for vice president of the United States. Efforts will be made to secure also for Mrs. Witcher the votes of the electors from Vermont, so that Mrs. Witcher may become officially the candidate of the republican party.

Mrs. Witcher is a republican elector of Utah. The other three electors chosen from Utah are men, and they have decided the complimentary vote of Utah and Vermont for Mrs. Witcher will be a graceful tribute to the women of the country, as well as a signal honor to the most popular woman of Utah.

Mrs. Witcher has been chosen twice as county clerk of Salt Lake county and is at present serving in that capacity. On both occasions she ran far ahead of her ticket. At the recent republican state convention she was an active candidate for the nomination for state treasurer, but she lost this nomination by a few votes. Then she was nominated for presidential elector.

Mrs. Witcher is the daughter of Judge C. S. Zane, formerly chief justice of the Utah supreme court and a former law partner of Abraham Lincoln at Springfield.

TWO MONTHS TO COUNT CASH.

Committee Named to Go Over Funds in Federal Treasury.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Secretary MacVeagh has appointed the following committee to count the money and securities of the treasury to verify the accounts of the retiring treasurer:

Lee McClung; E. B. Daskam, chief of the public moneys division; A. T. Huntington, chief of the loans and currency division, and Leon Isaacson, of fronton, O. Mr. Isaacson will represent the new treasurer in the count, while the interests of Mr. McClung will be looked after by J. O. Manson, of the treasurer's office.

This will be the greatest count of money and securities in all history. It is estimated that Mr. McClung's liabilities will approach close to $1,500,000,000, for which Treasurer Thompson must give a receipt. The count will require at least two months.

Street Railway Regulation.

The application of the big stick to the street railway system in Fort Wayne is always a more or less popular pastime, and admittedly a good deal of the criticism has been amply justified. Most people have had exasperating experiences with irregular schedules, long waits, overcrowded cars, failure on the part of conductors to call streets and other irritations that tend to overtax patience and provoke a flow of denunciatory language sometimes highly tinged with sulphur. Several phases of the indictment returned by the Federation of Labor against the traction company, however, involve more serious consequences than inconvenient delays, inadequate schedules and long waits for cars. It is cited that few of the cars are equipped with air brakes, that fenders are not inspected and kept in proper working order, and that the cars are not equipped with jacks for use in accident emergency—phases of the situation with which the casual passenger may not be familiar. The board of public safety has taken the situation in hand, and has invited officials of the company to a conference at which it is confidently expected the city authorities will insist upon a more diligent observance of the ordinances regulating street railway traffic. It is but just to remember that extensive track improvements during the past season has made normal car service impossible, but with the completion of this work there ought to be a betterment of conditions that would remove grounds for complaint without requiring anything like a popular uprising to get it.

Fort Wayne is sending a representative delegation of its business men to the Indiana Better Roads congress to be held at Indianapolis in December, and it is gratifying to see the local interest manifested in the general movement. Tremendous improvement has been made in Allen county highways during the past few years, but the road question is always with us, and the more general the effort toward highway betterment the sooner still greater advance will be made. There is wide difference of opinion as to how it ought to be accomplished, but there can be no failure to recognize the importance of fully-improved highways in the development of any section.

Announcement is made that your uncle Joseph B. Kealing, of Indianapolis, will officiate as Indiana federal patronage chief during the remainder of President Taft's administration, and that Hoosier republicans with properly attested regularity who want office under the fragment of the Taft regime will have to see Mr. Kealing about it. The job is short of tenure, but there isn't any manner of doubt but that Mr. Kealing's performance will be highly artistic and emphatically decisive.

Another of the real problems which Mr. Ralston will face as governor of Indiana is that of making 154 state jobs reach out over a sufficiently comprehensive area to take proper care of every Hoosier democrat who is morally certain he ought to have one of them.

Mr. Litman, recently the third party nominee for congress, declares his belief that two years hence the progressive candidate for congress in the Twelfth district will be victorious at the polls. But then Mr. Litman was never short on optimism. It was votes he lacked.

A PERILOUS PASTIME.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

There seems to be an unusual number of accidents in the hunting field this season. Scarcely a day passes without the report of some person being shot either in mistake for game or through carelessness in the handling of guns. In some sections sportsmen have resorted to wearing red caps and red sweaters to avoid being plucked by nearsighted or excited hunters, but the reports show that the victims are as often as not innocent bystanders who chance to cross the path. Carrying the guns recklessly, getting them caught and discharged while clambering over or through fences or while handing them to companions appear to furnish as many casualties as the familiar error of taking men for game.

Apparently the only hope for the reduction of the number of such mishaps, usually fatal, lies in getting those who go hunting to realize the perils of the pastime. Doubtless a great many take every precaution and, being familiar with the use of guns, avoid the risks that beset the inexperienced. But all stand on exactly the same footing so far as danger is concerned, because the veteran is just as likely to be maimed or killed by the carelessness of the tyro who fails to realize the necessity of caution in handling deadly weapons. No doubt each hunter thinks it impossible that an accident such as he reads of almost daily could happen to him. That is a common human failing responsible for disregard of many warnings. As a matter of fact, simply demonstrated by experience, no one is safe so long as any fail to take every precaution that prudence and vigilance suggest.

ENLIGHTENED SELF-INTEREST.

(Kansas City Star.)

A million dollars set aside by the International Harvester company to encourage improved farming methods, supplementing a similar sum appropriated for a similar purpose by Sears, Roebuck & Co., ten millions made available by the American Telephone and Telegraph company to pay old-age pensions to its employees, following comprehensive plans for this purpose adopted recently by a score or more of large corporate employers of labor—what do these things mean? They are evidences of the broad social views that are getting possession of men's minds—a recognition of obligations due to the public from men in positions of power in the organizations that are advancing the material civilization of the age.

There is no element of charity—as that word is commonly understood—in these great enterprises. They are the outgrowth of an enlightened self-interest. The Harvester company and the mail order house will expand their business in proportion as farming becomes more productive. The great corporations which provide adequate care for their employees will get greater efficiency from the labor they pay for. That is the only basis on which such projects can succeed. Efficiency is the master word of industrial effort, and must always be. Making labor and capital, and all the manifold organizations and activities of the world more effective is the only way in which a wider distribution of wealth and an uplift of the poorer classes of society may be accomplished. All plans for social betterment must keep this fact in view if they are to succeed.

A CHILD'S WASTE CLOGGED BOWELS

Makes them cross, peevish, restless and feverish—See if tongue is coated.

Your child isn't naturally cross, irritable and peevish. Mother! Examine the tongue if coated, it means the little one's stomach is disordered, liver inactive and its thirty feet of bowels clogged with foul, decaying waste.

Every mother realizes after giving delicious "Syrup of Figs" that this is the ideal laxative and physic for children. Nothing else regulates the little one's tender stomach, liver and bowels so effectively, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

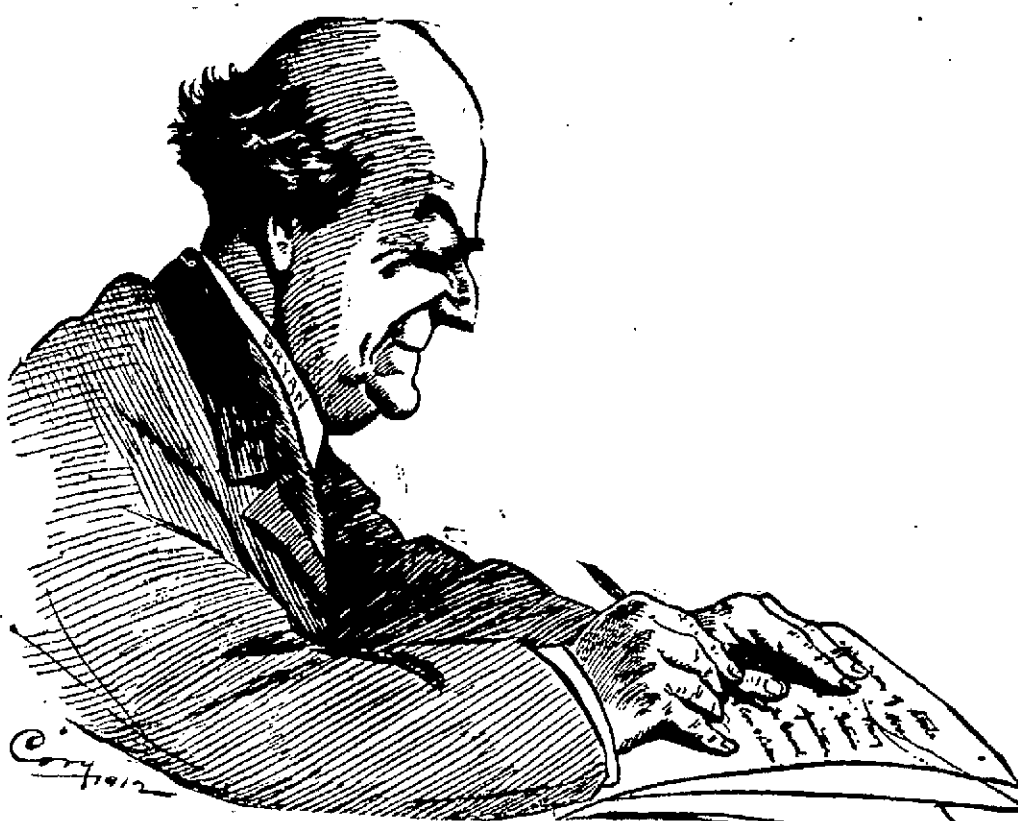

For constipated bowels, sluggish liver, biliousness, or sour, disordered stomach, feverishness, diarrhoea, sore throat, bad breath or to break a cold, give one-half to a teaspoonful of "Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours the clogged up waste, sour bile, undigested food and constipated matter will gently move on and out of the system without griping or nausea, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

THE CABINET MAKER.

A GOOD PLAN.

(Wheeling News.)

It does not seem proper to let a man who has served as chief executive of the United States to sink into oblivion after the term of his office has expired. It seems as if such a man should be placed in a position by which he could give the nation the greatest benefit of his acquired knowledge.

William Jennings Bryan has advanced an idea by which he plans to provide a place of distinction for the ex-presidents. This idea or plan was endorsed by President Taft in a speech Saturday night before the members of the Lotus club in New York city. The plan is to provide seats in the United States senate for ex-presidents. They are not to have the right of voting on bills, but are granted the right to enter into debates and discussions.

The plan is a good one. When a man has served one or two terms as chief executive of this nation, he should have gained such knowledge of proper government as would have been possible to have gained under no other circumstances. As an adviser and director of legislation, he should be invaluable. It is natural to believe that he would be familiar with the great national and international questions of the day and could give valuable information to the legislators.

Aside from this, the presence of one or more ex-presidents in the senate would add much to the dignity of that body. Such action as suggested by the plan would be at least a mark of the nation's respect and esteem to one who had occupied the highest office in the gift of the people.

A SIX-YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT.

(New York World.)

In his plea for a single term of six years for the president, Mr. Taft voiced an opinion that has gained many converts since the rise of the third-of-coffee thirst. At Baltimore it was the sense of the democratic national convention that the constitution should be amended so as to make the president ineligible for re-election. Nothing was said about lengthening the term.

That four years is a short period in which to work out great policies of government—a favorite argument of the long-term advocates—may sometimes be true. But where a president within two years of entering office had sacrificed the good-will of the country and persisted in using his power to obstruct the adoption of policies demanded by the people, a six-year term would only mean the denial of the popular will for so much longer time. To make the term of the president cover three congresses might mean that the country would be deprived, through the sole executive veto, of legislation twice approved at national elections.

The longer term of six years is offered largely as a concession to those who favor a single term. But toward the end of a six-year term the president might still play party politics for the

WOMEN SMOKE IN PUBLIC.

Londoners of Business Class Use Weed Extensively.

London, Nov. 21.—Cigarette smoking among English women of the middle classes is on the increase.

Not only does the ultra-fashionable woman smoke in public and in her own home, but her example is followed by a large proportion of the business class of women.

A correspondent gives an instance of this fact, showing that women now smoke in public with the utmost unconcern.

"I was recently traveling north," he writes, "and dined in the third-class restaurant car. Facing me at the table was a woman obviously of some refinement, and I hesitated to light my cigar after the meal.

"To my great surprise, however, she shortly afterward produced a cigarette case and began to smoke. I then noticed that out of twelve women dining in this third-class restaurant car seven were also smoking cigarettes."

Prof. Rechlin was a pupil of two famous Paris organists, Guilmant and Widor, with whom he studied in that city.

Prof. Guilmant heard him at the world's fair at St. Louis and was so impressed with his wonderful talent that he at once approached and induced him to go to Paris. Later Mr. Rechlin studied with Widor in Paris. Both of these Paris men give Prof. Rechlin high testimonials.

Examination of Clergy.

The annual examination of the junior clergy of the diocese of Fort Wayne was held at the bishop's residence Wednesday.

Twenty-seven young priests were in attendance. The board of examiners is composed of the following: Rt. Rev. Mgr. Oechtering, Rev. Joseph P. Delaney, of this city; Rev. J. H. Balho, of Avilla; Rev. Anthony Kroeger, of Logansport; Rev. C. V. Stetter, D. D., of Kendallville, and Rev. Bernard Wiedau, of New Haven.

Home Face Peeling Becomes Popular

(From Fashion Reporter)

No complexion treatment yet discovered seems to have become so generally and so immediately popular as the mercuriolized wax process. Evidently the reason for this is that this method actually gets rid of a bad complexion, which can hardly be said of any other. To temporarily hide or bleach the defective skin with cosmetics, cannot compare with the effect of literally removing the skin itself. Mercuriolized wax takes off the offending surface skin in flake-like particles, a little at a time, until there's none of it left. The new complexion thus produced exhibits a healthy glow and girlish beauty obtainable in no other way. This wax, which you can get at your druggist's, is applied at night in the same way you use cold cream, and washed off next morning.

Here is the only thing I know of that actually does remove wrinkles, remove them quickly, and at trifling cost: Powdered axolite, 1 oz., dissolved in 1/2 pt. witch hazel. Use as a face bath.

ST. MARY'S DRAMATIC CLUB

Will Stage Play Written by Rt. Rev. J. H. Oechtering.

The date for the production of "King Saul," which will be given by St. Mary's Dramatic club, has been advanced to some time in January. It was originally planned to stage the play this month, but owing to the number of details required to perfect the production it was deemed necessary to give all participants extra time for preparation.

The play has been written by Rt. Rev. Mgr. J. H. Oechtering of this city, and is known as a masterpiece. A cast of forty-five players is required to stage it. New and attractive scenery will be prepared and the production will probably be given at the Majestic theater. Several nights each week are given over to thorough drill on the part of all of those who will participate in the play.

A Children's Church

Rev. C. N. Shushall, the pastor of the First Baptist church, has organized a children's church in connection with his services and it will be launched at a meeting to be held Saturday afternoon. The same sort of movement was inaugurated some time ago by Rev. A. R. Evans, the pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church. At the meeting Saturday officers for the new church of the children will be elected. They will include elders and deacons and regular services will be held.

Hold Mass Meetings.

The five Methodist Episcopal churches of the city which have been holding special services each evening will have two general mass meetings next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The men will meet at the St. Paul M. E. church and the women at the Simpson church, the speakers being Rev. Tilman Hobson, of Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. Nellie Mason, of Bluffton.

Hold Missionary Meeting.

The Home Missionary society of the Methodist churches of the city held a union meeting today at the First M. E. church. This evening a session will be held and the address will be delivered by Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, of Washington, D. C., of the International Reform bureau. His theme will be "National Perils and Hopes."

The St. Patrick's Bazar.

The bazar being held this week at the St. Patrick's lyceum was largely attended last evening and the booths were well patronized. The contests are animated. The doll contest will close tomorrow night. The bazar continues all the week, closing Saturday night.

Rabbi Levitch Here.

Meyer Levitch, rabbi of the Hebrew congregation at Paducah, Ky., will arrive here tomorrow afternoon and will be the guest of the Achduth Veshalom congregation during his stay in Fort Wayne. He will officiate at the Hebrew temple tomorrow evening and services will start at 7:45 o'clock.

The Woman's League.

The regular meeting of the Women's league of the Wayne Street church will be held in the church parlors on Friday afternoon, in charge of the social section. Mrs. Thomas Coppock, chairman, will preside.

Home-Made Candy Sale.

The Geneva club girls of the Young Women's Christian association will have a sale of home-made candy at the rooms of the association commencing Saturday and continuing until Thanksgiving.

Presentation to Teachers.

Fifty members of the Loyal Women's Bible class of the West Creighton Avenue Church of Christ surprised their teacher, Mrs. Arthur Gillespie last night at her home on Huestis avenue and presented her with a silk umbrella. Refreshments were served.

BUFFALOES HAVE BIG TIME.

Large Class Installed at Van Wert by Local Lodge Last Night.

Two carloads of local Buffaloes, accompanied by the Citizens' band, took possession of Van Wert, O., last night when a class of 100 candidates was initiated into the mysteries of the order. The Fort Wayne lodges were met at the edge of Van Wert by a brass band and the parade, which was three blocks long, marched about the principal streets of the city before retiring to the lodge hall. Fireworks were set off to add to the interest of the occasion, and the parade attracted a large crowd. The supreme officers of the local lodge had charge of the initiation ceremonies. Two excellent addresses were delivered by J. M. Calhoun, president of Herd No. 1, and the president of the Van Wert herd. After the initiation a supper was served.

to cause the Turkish plenipotentiaries to reject them.

From Sofia comes a report through the semi-official agency at Vienna that the terms offered to Turkey are not uncompromising either in form or in substance, and that they even leave the door open to modification. It is thought here that this is likely to turn out to be correct as in view of the pestilence prevailing on the main battlefield the allied nations must be keenly anxious to remove their troops from contact with the devastating scourge.

Bulgarian Loss Heavy.

The Bulgarian losses in dead and injured during the fighting at Tchatalja totaled 8,000, according to official reports telegraphed by a special correspondent from Constantinople today. Terrific damage was done to the Bulgarian column which attacked the Turkish left wing, particularly by the shells from the Turkish warships. One of these fell on a Bulgarian ammunition train which exploded, resulting in great loss of life.

Reliable eye-witnesses of the fighting on the Turkish left wing at Tchatalja report that it appears to have resulted in the Bulgarians retiring along the road from Papaz Burgas toward the village of Tchatalja, according to the correspondent of the Daily News. One report says they fell back ten miles.

It appears, according to this correspondent, doubtful whether the enthusiastic description by the Turkish press over victories on the right wing are reliable. The Turkish losses here have been admittedly heavy, but the arrival of troops from Syria has further strengthened the Turkish defense. It is also evident that the supply and commissariat difficulties of the Ottoman army have been somewhat relieved.

Easy to Arrange Terms.

The conclusion is drawn in Constantinople that it could now be easier to arrange terms unless the Turkish military authorities make the mistake of supposing that a successful defense justifies defiance.

It is clear that the Bulgarians have evacuated the positions facing the Hamidieh forts, according to the Times correspondent. The Turks followed the retreating Bulgarians with their artillery, which has a longer range. The correspondent adds:

"I cannot understand the Bulgarian operations. Their withdrawal possibly is a feint, but if so, why did they make such strenuous efforts to entrench themselves?" The correspondent suggests that the Bulgarians may have imagined they would have an easy path to Constantinople or perhaps the Bulgarian generals were ordered to make a demonstration without seriously committing their troops. He adds:

"The Turks are massed in such strength on the Mahmoud Pasha lines that they look as though they would be able to resist indefinitely any attempt of the Bulgarians to approach them if the enemy's forward movement should continue as extended as it has been during the last few days. The Bulgarians have returned to the hills in the immediate vicinity of Tchatalja village and the Turkish troops have re-occupied some villages on the plain facing the Hamidieh forts. Whatever may be the importance of this movement it has acted as a strong tonic to the spirit of the Turkish troops."

BORE SHARE OF BATTLE.

Citizens Fought Beside Turkish Regulars at Monastir.

Belgrade, Serbia, Nov. 21.—In the defense of the Turkish fortress of Monastir the inhabitants of the city fought with great ferocity side by side with the Turkish regulars. They had been armed with rifles provided by the regular army. The brunt of the attack on the fortress was borne by the Serbian infantry. The men waded breast deep in the water of the surrounding marshes and took position after position by sheer dogged determination. The Turkish troops on Tuesday of this week made a last desperate effort to break through the surrounding Serbian cordon and in a measure succeeded. The fighting was very severe and at the end the Turkish troops were absolutely beyond the control of their officers, each man fleeing the way he thought best. Most of them ran panic stricken toward Florina, followed by the Serbian cavalry. It is thought many of them fell into the hands of the Greeks advancing from Saloniki. The battle is described by some of the officers present as one of the bloodiest encounters of the war. It extended over a line thirty miles long. The Turks in reply to each assault by the Serbians made fierce counter attacks, but were always repulsed.

According to some of the prisoners the Turkish troops are estimated to have totalled eighty thousand men and are said to have about 100 field guns.

At the Serbian headquarters it is stated that the fight, which lasted four days, cost the Turks 20,000 in killed and wounded, while the Serbian casualties must have been almost equal in number.

TERMS NOT ONEROUS.

Proposition for Peace Leaves Door Open to Modification.

Vienna, Nov. 21.—The terms offered to Turkey by the Balkan nations are neither in form nor in substance uncompromising, according to information derived from an authoritative source in Sofia. They even leave the door open to eventual modifications by negotiation so that it may be assumed Turkey will accept them and a truce will be brought about. Emperor Francis Joseph expressed his admiration at the way the Bulgarian troops had behaved during the war in the course of a speech to the Hungarian delegates at a banquet last evening.

On the other hand, however, his majesty declared he could not understand why the fortunes of war were so unfavorable to the Turks. Referring to the dispatch of an Austro-Hungarian consular official to investigate the situation at Pristina the emperor expressed the hope that the reports published regarding the Serbian treatment of the Austro-Hungarian

THE EDITOR PLEADED WITH MISS BURKE TO DESCRIBE HER NEW CLOTHES.

MISS BILLIE BURKE IN TWO OF HER NEW OUTDOOR COSTUMES.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Miss Burke is called "the best dressed woman in Fifth avenue." This fall she has some particularly pretty clothes for her new plays, so the editor asked her to describe them for the Daily Sentinel readers. Miss Burke demurred, at first, modestly considering the subject too personal, but finally consented when the editor assured her that Fort Wayne women really wanted to know. This is the first of three articles on that topic.

(By Billie Burke.)

THE FIRST WORD—I have always had a very warm feeling for that woman who said: "There is a satisfaction about being well dressed that religion cannot give."

"Every man wants every woman but those of his own family to be extravagant," said a clever friend to me the other day. And a studious one added: "Do you know what would be the greatest calamity that could happen to this country?" She answered her own question by saying, "Not war, nor pestilence, nor famine, but the agreement of all women not to buy a new gown for a year."

Several firms that make petticoats have failed recently because we don't wear them any more, and you can see where commerce would be if women suddenly stopped buying clothes.

There! I think that I have justified any little extravagance one may have when she goes to buy something pretty to wear. So now I am going to tell you about some of mine, because the editor thinks it will interest you. I have been buying my fall and winter clothes and I have had a perfectly good time doing it.

First there were the street clothes. I wear white when I can; it is my favorite color and I always have two or three white street suits. One that I like very much this winter is of white corduroy made with a plain narrow skirt, and a belted coat, the skirts of which are sharply cut away in front. The waistcoat is of white kid buttoned with old silver buttons. An old silver clasp holds the belt at the waist.

With it I wear a white plush hat that comes well over my head with an old silver buckle holding a stiff little feather that sticks out straight behind.

For morning wear and for shopping I have a black and white serge that I like very much, perhaps because it is so very plain and "tailored." The skirt is cut narrow. The coat is just a loose sack with a velvet collar and white silk reverses. With this suit I wear a white hat with paradise feathers across the brim in front. I wear with this fine French blouse that turn in at the neck.

I never wear a collar; in fact, no one wears high collars this fall. The doctors say that to swathe the neck is to invite throat troubles. I am glad that they are against the high collar that made a woman look as though her head was disconnected from her body. We can wear our necks dressed low and say "by doctor's orders." Even with my outing coats and sweaters I do not wear a high collar. My sweater is blue and white and I wear it with a white hat and a white broadcloth skirt. It is a jolly thing for a morning tramp.

The tailored suit is the only thing for the street and for the girl who must count her pennies I would advise that she put most of her money into her street dress, as she will wear it most. If she is under 30 and slender, the French lingerie blouse is fine to wear with it, but for "fair-fat-and-forty" a waist of some soft material that blends with the skirt material is better.

In colors, for the fair girl there is nothing prettier than the taupe shade of grey. I like it so well that I have a taupe or moleskin plush gown and three-quarter coat for the cooler days. I don't like to see the color on a dark woman. But this year the brunette can wear all shades of brown or green and be in fashion.

JUST ONE LAST WORD—Have your street dresses the smartest in your wardrobe.

HETTY GREEN IS 78 AND AT WORK

Walks to Business and Refuses to Rest on Her Birthday.

CHEWS AT AN ONION

New York, Nov. 21.—Colonel Edward H. R. Green, a strapping, robust man in the prime of health, rode to his office in a high-powered automobile with soft cushions, while his aged mother, Mrs. Hetty Green, walked. Since a man who needed $10,000 happened to select Mrs. Green's automobile to run over him she has been a little skittish about these "new fangled things."

"You certainly are looking fine for a woman of 77 years," said a reporter who called on Mrs. Green, to inquire how she would celebrate the anniversary of her birth.

"I'm not 77," quickly said that remarkable woman. "I'll be 78 tomorrow."

Onions for Longevity. "Pardon this onion I'm chewing," she continued, "but it's the finest thing in the world for health. Perhaps that's why I live so long. I had a big tenderloin steak for breakfast, with fried potatoes, a pot of tea and the top of a bottle of milk. I don't buy cream because it is twelve hours older than the milk. I just take off the top of the bottle of milk, set the rest in a cool place and use it for cooking."

"How do you account for the color in your cheeks?" was asked.

"That's not rouge and don't you think so for a minute," said Mrs. Green. "That's because I always chew a baked onion."

In Doubt About Wealth. "How much are you worth now?" "I haven't the least idea."

"Can it be $10,000,000, $27,000,000 or $100,000,000?"

"I am an old Quaker, and when I say I don't know what I'm worth I mean that. You see, if I sell a piece of property in Chicago for $300,000 I keep the money on deposit in banks there. If I sell bonds in St. Louis for $500,000 I keep the money with the bankers there. In that way the banks help me to dispose of what I don't want."

"Are you going to rest on your birthday and enjoy yourself?"

"What! Waste a whole day? I guess not." And she stamped her foot impatiently. "I'll be down here before 10 o'clock tomorrow and I will remain here until after 4 o'clock."

"But is there no little celebration you are to have?"

"Oh, yes; all day I'll be singing my little song of gladness praise that I've escaped the hands of robbers, cut-throats and money thieves which infest Wall street."

Foreclosed on a Church. "The fact that you are living in Countess Leary's house is not an indication that you may embrace the Catholic religion?" she was asked.

"Let's not talk about religion," she replied. "I once held twenty-eight mortgages on Catholic churches at 2 percent interest, placed through Countess Leary, and if I can do any church any good I am happy. All the churches are good. Why, I had a mortgage for $27,000 on a Presbyterian church in Chicago and when it burned down the pastor wrote me that unless I canceled the mortgage I would not go to heaven. I wrote right back to him that as long as he was in a threatening mood he better climb up on his cornerstone and pray for my soul, because I was going to foreclose within sixty days, and I did."

THE HOME DRESSMAKER. When you buy gingham or other thin material for a house dress, buy an extra half yard with which make simple and dainty dust caps to match the dresses. Finish them with an inexpensive lace edge.

To lengthen a child's dress, open the shoulder seam and insert a strip of material like that used for the waist. This gives the needed space in the armhole and around the neck. It leaves any trimming that may be on the dress untouched. Yet the waist is lengthened and the gathers on the skirt are in the proper place.

Removable buttons are excellent in wash dresses. Buy wooden button molds with a center hole. Insert a brass paper fastener in the hole. Cover the button with cloth. A small hole may then be made in the garment, where the button is to be placed. Push the prongs of the fastener into the hole and flatten out. This holds the button securely. To wash the dress the buttons are easily removed and washed separately.

The hardest wear on a waist comes under the arms. Protect this part of the waist with a strip of oiled silk. There will be less likelihood of the unsightly holes. The most fashionable dressmakers include this among their "tricks of the trade."

Sometimes a few minutes' thought will save hours of work. Did you ever try to turn a skirt without ripping the seams? You'll say it's impossible. Instead, read this explanation of the little labor-saving plan and then try it:

This last step brings each seam down to a little narrow strip of two raw edges. Now comes the labor-saving thought—stitch a piece of the braid down over each of these seams from waist line to hem.

SOME EYE "DOWNS." Don't rub the eyes. Don't read while lying down. Don't sit facing the light when reading or writing. Don't paper your living rooms with red paper. Don't use red lamp shades. Don't write on red paper. Don't use the eyes at twilight for reading or writing. Don't try to sew upon black goods by lamplight. Don't strain the eyes by overwork.

The best method of keeping small screws, brads and tacks from rusting is to place them in small wide mouthed bottles, tightly corked. The bottle should be perfectly dry before using. Sandpaper can be kept perfectly dry and in good working condition by rolling it and keeping it in a wide mouthed jar and screwing down the lid.

Money-Saving Recipes

(Aunt Ruth in Household Helps.)

"Electrolysis is expensive and painful. Plain dentine removes superfluous hair. Mix a little dentine with enough water to cover the hairs, apply and leave on for a minute or two, then wipe off, wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone."

"Regular and well colored eyebrows and eyelashes add beauty to the face. Thin and straggly lashes and brows should be gently massaged daily with enough water to cover the hairs, apply and leave on for a minute or two, then wipe off, wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone."

"Aches and pains destroy beauty. Mother's Salve is penetrating and enters the pores at once, giving almost instant relief. Just rub on briskly and it will have a comforting, soothing effect on pains and aches in back or joints, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, cold in the chest, rheumatism or neuralgia."

"Glossy, well kept hair is always admired, but frequent washing dries and deadens the hair. Any woman can keep her hair light, fluffy and beautifully lustrous by dry shampooing. Mix four ounces of powdered orris root and a package of therox, sprinkle a little on the head, brush out and your hair is clean and wavy. Therox removes oil, dust and dandruff."

"A complexion beautifier that will not rub off or show like powder is made easily by dissolving a package of maytane in half pint of witch hazel. Gently massage face, neck and arms with this lotion daily and the skin will be soft, lovely, smooth and supple. Maytane prevents the growth of hair."

FINE ORCHESTRA AT MAJESTIC.

Music An Added Feature of the Motion Picture Programs.

As an added feature of the motion pictures now current at the Majestic theater an especially delightful program of music is being furnished at all performances by the regular Majestic orchestra under the leadership of Violinist Pickett. Pictures of more than ordinary merit have been selected for each day of the present week, and equally meritorious music programs have been arranged. Leader Pickett has an able assistant in the string section of his orchestra in the person of Cellist Zedler—both gentlemen being musicians of the highest order.

"The Rosary" Next Week.

When Rowland and Clifford's new play, "The Rosary," comes to the Majestic theater next Monday for a three days' engagement with Wednesday matinee, the discriminating public will be given an opportunity to see pictured before them a decided answer to the growing unrest and irreligion of our times. Not that "The Rosary" is a decision merely—it is more. It is a faithful picture of the misery and unhappiness that surely comes upon man who lacks faith in the supreme good and its inevitable triumphs in our world.

A typical American family is taken as a fair example of every day conditions that obtain throughout the United States; the husband a man immersed in business, the exacting business of Wall street and the stock exchange.

It is a wonderful preaching of faith's mighty power, of the saving grace of the good that lies all about us. The tremendous story, powerful in its simplicity, is interwoven with the higher threads of sane humor, of the sort that one loves to take away from the theater and muse over in idle moments.

ATTENTION, MOOSE!

THE HOME DRESSMAKER.

Small Trouseaux.

Many girls are winter brides. It is safe to say that a great number are planning now for the happy day and date. Styles change so quickly that the wise girl will content herself with a SMALL TROUSSEAU. Decide, first, on the wedding gown, as it is probably the most expensive item in the outfit. But leave the making of it till toward the last. Whether this dress shall be of satin, silk, lace or some less expensive material depends on many things and, therefore, must be left very largely to the individual to decide. Still it should be of something soft and clinging—something that will drape well. It should be made in a style that allows it to be of service for formal and informal affairs afterwards. So make the train, if you have one, separately. Whatever the material of the dress, the train should be of satin and lined with chiffon.

An afternoon gown can be made of silk voile over a silk of contrasting color. If most of the sewing is done at home, it is the best plan to buy the tailor-made suit.

A pretty house dress made on the order of a negligee, but suitable to receive any friend who may call, may be made of silk, challis or other light, dainty material. Some cambric house dresses, preferably one-piece style; several working aprons, a wrapper; at least two blouses for the tailored suit; a long, separate coat, and the necessary hats, shoes, neckwear, gloves, etc., which always must be remembered, will just about complete the essentials.

The underwear scores of girls like to make for themselves. It is a pleasure and is sure to contain much better material and workmanship than if purchased, ready-made, at a moderate price.

A JOURNEY INTO FASHION LAND.

When the purpose of the button is purely ornamental many attractive fancies may be indulged in. Perhaps the most novel are of amber, and little amber balls add an artistic finishing touch to blouses of creamy lace. Tiny beads or buttons of amber or jet are also introduced on jabots. Crystal buttons are prettier than ever. On neckwear they are the daintiest little things, unobtrusive and very beautifully cut, with tiny balls of crystal on the frill of a silk blouse make a pretty, glittering finish. Balls and half balls and the old-fashioned torpedo are favorite buttons forms at present.

There is a revival of the quaint old crystals flecked with color, and crystal with a deeply colored solid center is seen in preference to the rimmed variety of our summer affections.

Glass is much more used in the making of buttons than one might suppose from their appearance, for not only do we have the favorite crystal forms and many of the most decorative examples in glass, but so-called horn and bone are often of the material.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORING TOWNS

ORVA FREELS YET MISSING FROM HOME

Nothing Has Been Heard Concerning the Whereabouts of Columbia City Man.

Columbia City, Ind., Nov. 21.—Nothing definite relative to the whereabouts of Orva Freels who disappeared from home over a week ago has been learned by the members of his family and they are as much at sea now as they were the day after he disappeared. Mrs. Freels stated Wednesday that she now has some hopes that her husband has started for Kansas or Minnesota where he has relatives living and that if this is the case should hear from him within the next few days. She stated that for several months past her husband had been talking about making his relatives a visit in the west but she cannot understand why he did not tell her where he was going when he left home, and this feature alone leads her to believe that probably he has met with foul play or that he ended his own life. The circumstances surrounding the case are of a mysterious nature and the entire community in which the Freels reside are doing their utmost to assist the grief-stricken woman in trying to locate her husband.

The Best Cough Syrup is Baitly Made at Home

Costs Little and Acts Quickly. Money Returned if It Fails.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup, and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It stops obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—in a hurry, and is splendid for sore lungs, asthma, croup, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 3/4 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quinine and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equalled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

TWO OSSIAN BANKS WILL CONSOLIDATE

The Newly Organized Farmers' State Will Absorb the Bank of Ossian.

Ossian, Ind., Nov. 21.—Negotiations are under way, whereby the two Ossian banks will be consolidated, the Farmers' State bank, which was organized recently, buying the stock of the Bank of Ossian.

The Bank of Ossian is the old bank. It was organized about eight years ago. W. H. Rupprecht was elected president, which office he has held ever since. James W. Sale, the present vice president, was started in this office. Hamp Roe started as cashier, but later was succeeded by Will Smith, the present cashier. The officers of the old bank are well known and have established quite a reputation for themselves in the banking business.

The Farmers' State bank was organized a few months ago by D. W. Zintzmaster, of Huntington. A large number of farmers are stockholders.

Those in the hunt were: Harvey Sawyer, Harry Trickett, W. L. Ware and Howard Richards. Mr. Dowty will be entertained at Fort Wayne this evening when the rabbits will be served at a banquet at the Hof Brau cafe.

SPENDS HALF OF HIS TIME IN JAIL

Hartford City Man With Penchant for Liquor, Presents a Pitiful Case.

Hartford City, Ind., Nov. 21.—Noah Smith, a hopeless inebriate whose taste for liquor keeps him in trouble with the police about half of the time, is in jail again on a charge of intoxication, in addition to which he must answer to a surety of the peace proceedings instituted by Jacob Stadelaker, a neighbor, who declares that it is not safe to live in the same locality with the inebriate.

Smith is a married man with a family, and lives at the extreme west end of Water street. During his sober moments he is a good workman and makes good wages, but the instant he draws his weekly wages he breaks for the nearest saloon and instead of spending his money for the necessities of life, spends it all for whisky and usually lands in jail.

By adhering assiduously to this program Noah manages to work half the time and keep himself in jail the rest of the time and his wife and children, who never drank a drop of whisky in their lives are made to suffer continually and go hungry and destitute a large part of the time.

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Sidney Swaim and daughter, Frances, left yesterday for Parker City, Ind., to be the guests of her sister, Mrs. Carl Chapman, until after Thanksgiving. Mrs. Swaim will then go to Economy to visit with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Martin.

BADE MEYERS OUT FOR CANTON JOB

If He Lands He Will Have Same Franchise He Started With in Central.

HE IS A FREE AGENT

If Bade Meyers should happen to land as manager of the Canton team in the Interstate league he will return under the same franchise that he was employed under when he entered the Central league as head of the Fort Wayne playing corps.

His contract with Quincy expired at the close of last season and he is a free agent and is looking for a place that will enable him to spend the summer near Bellefontaine, O. in which he always designates as the capital of the universe.

He and Mrs. Meyers have been visiting in Canton for some time, and while he was there the rumor was started that he would succeed Ed Greninger in 1913. He is popular there and his appointment would meet with the general approval of the fans.

Canton has the baseball franchise that was originally granted to Fort Wayne in the Central league. All happened when the franchise was sold to the Central league.

He has been at Quincy for several years but is anxious for another berth and may be taken on at Canton.

In the same connection there is a probability that Fred Alberts will return to the same club with which he started his professional baseball career. He has been declared a free agent and has also been awarded permission from the team to leave for the season.

He is a general favorite and if he should fall into a job on the local hurling staff and make good his friends would be highly pleased. There is little room to doubt that Claude H. Van Hook will give him a chance as he knows he will be a drawing card if he gets back into form, and would probably do this here better than any place on earth.

Charlie Alberts and his family will leave for the coast early in February and he will join Sacramento for spring practice. He expects to make a nice record in the showing in the few games he pitched last fall. This is indicated by the fact that he is taking the family along with him at it is a long and expensive trip.

Without the family Alberts is not contented for a minute and his work will be better with the little household located on the circuit in which he is employed.

FITZ MADE DEEP
STUDY OF CHEST

Landed a Blow and Corbett Has Never Fully Recovered from It.

STARTLED THE WORLD

Fifteen years and six months have passed since the afternoon in Carson City, Nev., when Bob Fitzsimmons sent James J. Corbett, fight champion, to the realm of the dead on the floor of the ring.

The terrific blow that Fitz dealt to Corbett's stomach made a new world's heavyweight champion, and now, although the title has since passed into two other hands, Corbett never got over the effects of that crippling blow.

Corbett was operated upon in a Philadelphia hospital recently for appendicitis. He will get well and strong again, say the surgeons, but Corbett is convinced he had a lucky escape.

"I have never been the same," he frankly explained, "since the afternoon Fitz put over that terrific left-hand hook to my stomach, and I knew some day just such a thing would happen."

The surgeons have removed my appendix, but I feel certain that no operation would have been necessary had I been able to guard my stomach from the onslaughts of Fitz as well as I guarded my face."

In the morning newspapers of March 18, 1897, fight enthusiasts from coast to coast devoured the account of the big fight at Nevada, which the big journalists served to their readers by the page.

They were puzzled to read that Fitz won the fight by hitting Corbett a stiff blow in the solar plexus. "Solar plexus," what's that? They thought. Did Fitz beaten doctors at their own game, and discovered a new organ in the human body? Many thought so, for puzzled ring veterans who had seen bloody fights on the turf and in the ring for years could never recall of any bluster being knocked out by a punch on the solar plexus. Why had Fitz beaten the doctors or old Hank Sullivan thought of the solar plexus box who wondered?

They learned that the solar plexus was a network of nerves controlling the abdomen. A part of this big nerve system is the phrenic plexus, which controls the rising and falling of the diaphragm. If the solar plexus is paralyzed then the phrenic plexus deadens in sympathy with it, and the whole motor of the system stops working. The diaphragm fails to perform its function of breathing strokes.

Fitz learned these facts from an anatomist, with whom he consulted in order to study the chest on scientific lines. It was part of Fitz's campaign to win the championship, and shows that the Australian was a student as well as a smashing hitter. Fitz knew that he was meeting a man who was a student of the science of boxing in the world in Corbett. He knew that it would be impossible to get through craftily to Corbett's guard and reach his jaw. Therefore he decided that the body would be his business.

The anatomist explained the workings of the stomach and abdomen to the tall, thin blusterer. He showed him the most vulnerable point of the chest, a place under the arch of a rib on the left side under the size of a silver dollar. Here the solar plexus is exposed, and a punch there would cripple any human.

Corbett always said that he lost the fight because he thought he had Fitz going. Fitz was pretty badly out up by the lightning jabs that Gentleman Jim rained on him. The Australian was battered and shaky when Corbett's smiling and confident watched him in the fourth round. It was time to finish Fitz, Corbett thought.

Corbett made the mistake of leading with his right to crack Fitz's jaw. This tactic brought his own body in range of Fitz's fists. It was the opening that foxy Fitz had been looking for since the first began, and he was quick to take advantage of it. The blow was hard, but it traveled only eight inches.

Corbett fell on one knee. He was perfectly conscious, but as helpless as if he had been wallowed on the jaw. As soon as the blow landed on its mark it paralyzed the phrenic plexus, which in turn caused the diaphragm to stop working. Corbett couldn't breathe, and didn't breathe until the effects of the punch had worn off. In the meantime ten seconds had been tolled off by the referee and Fitz became champion of the world because of the advice he had received from his friend, the anatomist.

THIS FRENCH BANTAM HAS WON FIFTY-FOUR BATTLES AND ALL BY KNOCKOUTS.

New York, Nov. 21.—Charles Ledoux, champion of European bantam boxers, is the real wonder of the prize ring today. He is now in New York looking for new worlds to conquer.

Ledoux is 51 inches in height, but has a reach of 61 inches—half a foot longer than his altitude and just that much longer than the reach of any other bantam living.

He has fought and won fifty-four battles in the last six months, every one with a knockout, a record unparalleled in the history of boxing.

Think of it. Fifty-four knockouts in succession! Ledoux confidently expresses the belief that he will go through the ranks of the American midgets just as cleanly as he has through the Europeans.

Hundreds have watched him train at his quarters here. They went to criticize and came away marveling at the little giant. One glance at his physique and no one asked him how he knocked 'em out. The speed exhibited by the French boy is marvelous. He is a small edition of Terry McGovern and Jim Britton when these luminaries were at their best.

Ledoux's legs are carry, but beautifully muscled, well able to carry the speed that is his specialty. But the wonderful part of his make-up is his shoulders. They are massive; wider and more powerful than those of many a heavyweight.

In his shoulders lies the power that drives the knockout arms and fists. Technically Ledoux can claim the world's bantam championship, although he has never met Johnny Coulon, our own pet wonder.

But the French boy knocked out Digger Stanley, who took the title from Jim Bowker, who had won it from the holder, Frankie Neil.

This fight star is a modest, pleasant little chap who does not speak a word of English and who refuses to be interviewed through an interpreter, but his managers have two of the spokes—E. Guller and Raul Ancinell—do talking enough for him.

"Ah, he is a wonderful fighter," he grandest in the world," he said in French with many exclamations. "He gets in so quick, he goes fast, bang—bang—bang—so quick! He fights, all the time, he light foot like hell."

A half dozen youths, engaged as sparring partners for Ledoux, admit the truth of this statement of Ancinell's. Ledoux is after Coulon, "Kid" Williams, the sensational Baltimore, or any one else. Managers of American boxers have put forward the fray, "get-it-on," hoping perhaps that some second-rate will cop the little foreigner, before they have to let their proteges get mugged up by the knockout invader.

If Ledoux defeats Battling Reddy Thursday night he will doubtless be matched with Williams.

KNOLL MAY LAND
YOUNGSTOWN JOB

Is Being Considered for the Place Along With Several Others.

A LITTLE NEW DOPE

Youngstown, O., Nov. 21.—If there is a brand of weeds that grows faster than rumors about a baseball team, they have certainly never been corralled and their life history recorded in the interesting pages of botany. Right here in Youngstown is afforded an excellent illustration of the rapidity and vigor of the national pastime rumor in the many stories that are going the rounds as to who will succeed Bill Phillips. Charles Hemphill, Harry Hogan and one or two others have been nominated and now comes "Punch" Knoll, the recently released leader of Dayton.

Knoll is a playing manager. Last season he covered left for the Vets. He put up a grand ball club, and in 1911 practically won the rag. It is said his reason for Dayton is no reflection on his ability, but rather a testimonial of a difference of opinion held by those in charge of the Dayton club.

NEE IS WILLING TO MANAGE CLUB

He Will Give Vets His Best Either as Manager or Just a Player.

FANDOM LIKES IDEA

Dayton, O., Nov. 21.—Johnny Nee is glad to get back with the Vets. He hopes to be appointed manager of the team, but is not sure of the appointment and will not balk on coming here and playing his best if some other man gets the plum. He is confident he can deliver the goods as manager if appointed. All of this is indicated in a letter received from him from Springfield, Mo. Parts of the letter are quoted:

"I certainly am proud to be a Vet once more. I didn't think I could get away from Terre Haute and when I received Elmer Redelle's telegram from Springfield stating that he had secured my release from Terre Haute I wanted to jump straight up and holler.

"So far I have not been assured or even promised the management, but from the Dayton papers I gather I have a chance to be appointed. I hope to get it, as I feel sure I can deliver the goods."

"Whether Nee gets the management of the club or not, the Vets have landed a mighty fine player for next season in the Dayton club. He is a good hunter and won't balk and not try to do his best as a player if some other man is appointed leader of the team. He has never had much of a chance to display his executive ability, but the owners of the Dayton club believe he has codes of local owner has noticed the trend of sentiment. Powers has always shown a willingness to let the fans have their say in the management of the team, and the demands for a new manager seems to stand a fair chance of fulfillment.

When the apparent satisfaction that followed the appointment of the Central league into two six-club circuits, the Central and Interstate, all is not rosy in the prediction that when the bell rings in the spring time calling the start of the season it would not be surprising to find that both leagues had suffered the loss of a couple of clubs and that a consolidation had followed, welding the surviving clubs into a new and compact circuit to be known as the Central league.

This is expected to be the turning point for both organizations. When this time arrives there are few who believe that Terre Haute and South Bend will be willing or rather in position to furnish this season in the Central league will ante that they will finish the season for both organizations. MRS. BRADEN DIES VERY SUDDENLY

Was Charter Member of West Creighton Avenue Church.

THE OTHER DEATHS

Malissa Jane Braden, aged sixty-nine years, the wife of David Braden, died very suddenly at 2 o'clock this morning at the family residence, 804 Cottage street. Death was due to valvular heart disease from which she had suffered for some time.

Mrs. Braden was born November 16, 1844. She had lived many years in Fort Wayne, and was widely known. She was a charter member of the West Creighton Avenue Church of Christ. One year ago she and her husband celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding.

Surviving besides the husband she leaves two children: Jesse Braden and Mrs. Harry Zwalen, both of this city, and two grand children, Josephine and Harry Braden. She also leaves the following brothers and sisters: Walter Broxton, of Fort Wayne; Charles Broxton, of Boise City, Idaho; John Broxton, of Roanoke; William and Reuben Broxton, of Columbia City; Mrs. Della Griffith, of Decatur, Ill.; and Mrs. Amelia Plummer, of Roanoke. One sister, Mrs. R. Conner, died six months ago.

Funeral services Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence, and at 2 o'clock from the West Creighton Avenue Church of Christ.

SARRAZINE

August Sarrazine, aged 38 years, a lifelong resident of Allen county, died at 11 o'clock this morning at the family residence, 823 Eliza street, where he had moved only a short time ago, after retiring from the farm. Death was due to complications.

Mr. Sarrazine was a member of St. Vincent's Catholic church at Academie, but since coming to the city became a member of St. Mary's church. Surviving besides the wife he leaves his mother and three children and the following brothers and sisters: Julius, Fred and Sylvester Sarrazine, of Fort Wayne; John Sarrazine, of Jefferson township; Charles Sarrazine, of Milan township, and Mrs. Mary Berning, of St. Joe township.

Funeral services Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the residence and at 10 o'clock from St. Mary's Catholic church.

HOLBROOK

Mrs. Jennie Holbrook, aged fifty years, the wife of Lee Holbrook, of DeKalb county, died at 7:45 o'clock Wednesday night at the Lutheran hospital, after six months illness from complications.

Mrs. Holbrook was a member of the United Christian church at Bellfontaine, O. Surviving besides the husband she leaves four sons and four daughters—Lyman, Forest, Howard, Lee and Miss Edna Holbrook, at home; Miss Blanche Holbrook, of Logansport; Mrs. Bertha Voorhees and Mrs. Gladys Fair.

FUNERAL NOTICES

Lertz—Funeral services for Carl Lertz Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 2118 Broadway, and at 2:30 o'clock from the Emmanuel Lutheran church.

Rumm—Funeral services for Margie Rumm Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 2403 Oliver street, Rev. Samuel Wagenhals officiating.

RUSHVILLE MAN WINS

H. T. Arbuckle Elected Grand Warden of Indiana Odd Fellows.

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—After many ballots J. T. Arbuckle, of Rushville, was elected to the office of grand warden by the grand lodge of Odd Fellows at its closing session today. The office is a stepping stone to higher offices. Among the other candidates were H. T. Miller, South Bend, and Jesse Macbeth, Fort Wayne.

H. W. Carpenter, of Petersburg, automatically becomes grand master for the year.

SMASHING DOWN GIRL'S DEFENSE

Miss Farley Forced Into Admissions on Cross-Examination.

IN A GRILLING QUIZ

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 21.—That she had been having intimate relations with Jerome Quigley, the man to whom she was engaged, was the admission on cross examination today by Cecilia Farley, the pretty stenographer, on trial for the murder of Alvin E. Zollinger.

The story of the defense in the trial has been that Miss Farley's love for Quigley was a pure love—so pure that she had confessed she had done the shooting when first arrested in order that Quigley might be released. The defense had introduced testimony to show how Miss Farley had been wronged by Zollinger and of how, when she found true love with Quigley, she had unsuccessfully attempted to break off relations with Zollinger.

Miss Farley admitted her intimate relations with Quigley with lowered head and in a soft voice. Mrs. Farley, the aged mother of the defendant sat in the court room with lowered head and with a handkerchief to her eyes.

Admitted False Statement. Prosecutor Turner's questions today were fired at the witness in rapid succession. Miss Farley admitted that she had made false statements to the police to get Quigley out of trouble.

"Isn't it a fact Miss Farley, that you are lying now to get yourself out?" demanded the prosecutor.

"No sir," emphatically denied the witness.

Miss Farley said that she had gone to the park with Zollinger because she knew he was going to meet Quigley and that she did not want Zollinger to shoot Quigley.

"And you were willing to shoot Mr. Zollinger to prevent him from shooting Quigley?" she was asked.

"No," was her reply.

Previously Miss Farley's testimony had tended to give the impression that she was forced by Zollinger to go to the park with him.

Many Women Present.

Questions and counter questions concerning incidents of the shooting were piled by the prosecution in an effort to break down the girl's story that Zollinger was shot accidentally while struggling for possession of a revolver which she carried in her handbag.

Although Miss Farley held up well yesterday under the cross fire of the prosecuting attorney she was plainly wearied before court adjourned late in the afternoon. Her attorneys, however, expected the night's rest to renew her vigor and ability to strengthen her story by affirming her previous story.

Another large crowd, mostly women, thronged the court room when the doors were thrown open this morning.

SAM SCHEPPS FREE MAN.

Other Informers Among New York Gunmen to Be Released.

New York, Nov. 21.—Sam Schepps, one of the four informers whose testimony resulted in the conviction of Charles Becker and the four gunmen for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was discharged from custody today.

He had been held on a technical charge of vagrancy.

Schepps refused to divulge his plans for the future. The time for the release of Webber, Vallon and Rosa, the other informers, has not been made public by the district attorney's office, but all three, it is expected, would be given their freedom today.

ILLNESS IS SERIOUS.

Russian Crown Prince Can Never Completely Recover.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—The Russian imperial crown prince is suffering from tuberculosis of the hip joint and hemophilia, excluding any hope of his complete restoration to health, according to the Vossische Zeitung, who says he has his information from an absolutely authentic source.

THE BIRTH RECORD.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Shook, of 1058 Wall street, a son.

CHURCH FIRE; LOSS $100,000.

Priest and Twenty Firemen Overcome by Smoke at Lowell, Mass.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 21.—A priest and twenty firemen were overcome by smoke from a fire which today destroyed the interior of St. Jean Baptiste church, the largest French Catholic edifice in Lowell. The financial loss is estimated at $100,000. About 150 worshippers were attending mass when the fire was discovered in a room behind the altar, and they walked out quietly. The Rev. Father Baron, who went into the building with others to save the statuary and vestments, was overcome by the smoke and had to be carried out.

LEFT AFTER TWO SHORT ATTEMPTS

Schlupp Found He Was Not Cut Out for Married Man and "Beat It."

OTHER COURT CASES

After two attempts to settle down and become a staid married man, Arthur C. Schlupp found it was no use and in the language of the street, he "beat it." and Emma Schlupp, his wife, is asking for a decree.

The two were married August 16, 1906, and two days later the husband left and was gone until the first of October, when he returned and remained two months and then left for good. She charges abandonment and failure to provide. Ballou, Hoffman & Rosenberg are her attorneys.

Trying to Break a Will.

The trial of the suit under which Ernest, Carl and Herman Hammer are trying to have the will of their mother, Ernestine Hammer, set aside, was placed on trial today before Attorney W. C. Ryan as special judge. They charge undue influence and are fighting because the estate, except $5 to each, was left to Bertha Hammer Spreen, their sister, who was made executrix under the will and who is the defendant in this action. Harper & Fuelber and Erick & Emrick are opposing counsel.

Did Not Take Up Case.

The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad company did not take any action in the suit filed against the city to restrain the officials from opening Harrison street across its tracks and it is likely that a thorough understanding of the matter will bring about an amicable settlement.

Wants a Decree.

Because he would not provide a home for her Anna Lewis is asking a divorce from Edward Lewis. They were married June 15, 1910.

Notes of the Courts.

Mrs. Emma M. Baker has entered suit against Ralph Hardesty, collector for a loan agency, demanding $2,500 damages, alleging that she has been in a state of nervous collapse since Nov. 18, when he called in the absence of her husband and children and endeavored to take liberties with her.

William C. Ryan has been chosen to act as superior court judge in the absence of Judge Carl Yaple.

Charging that Dr. James E. McHugh improperly set a broken leg and caused a permanent injury, John H. Dreesel has entered suit demanding $5,000 damages. Phil B. Colerick filed the suit.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY

Miss Clara Frank and Miss Clara Dondero have returned from a two days' visit in Huntington where they were guests of Miss Magdalena Holbrook and attended the charity ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hunsicker, of Decatur, and grandchildren, Leona and Donald Hunsicker, Mrs. Alice A. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Smith and son, all of this city, have returned from a visit in Poe with Mr. and Mrs. David Hiser and Marion Smith.

All mothers of the Rudisill parent-teacher club are requested to be present at the meeting tomorrow at 2 o'clock. An interesting program has been arranged and will consist of dramatic exercises by the school children, and a paper and talks by Mrs. Shepherd, Mrs. McCulloch and Mrs. Twining.

A surprise that gave much pleasure to all the friends interested in it was a "stag" affair on Charles P. Josse at his home in Rockhill street in honor of his natal anniversary. The party was on Tuesday evening and twenty intimate friends combined efforts to make it a success. There were guessing contests and games and at a later hour a splendid supper that was served by Mrs. Josse assisted by Mrs. William Josse and Miss Elsie Josse. The supper tables were decorated with large yellow chrysanthemums and carnations were given as favors.

The Jester club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Orla S. Miller, 1302 South Calhoun street, tomorrow afternoon.

Minehart-Bensman.

Miss Florence Bensman and Mr. A. F. Minehart were married on Wednesday afternoon at the Cathedral rectory by Rev. J. R. Quinlan. The wedding supper was served at the home of the groom's mother, who lives in Runnion avenue. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Bensman. The bridal couple left for a trip to points in Michigan and after two weeks will be at home to their many friends with Mr. Minehart's mother until they are ready to begin housekeeping. Mr. Minehart is a shipping clerk for the Boss Manufacturing company.

HOLD AGED MAN AS BIGAMIST.

John Lindley, Aged 70, is Now in Jail at Marion.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 21.—John Lindley, aged 70, of this city, formerly of Indianapolis and Elwood, is in jail here on a charge of bigamy.

Emily Lindley came here and filed the suit asserting Lindley married her in Madison county. She says also that on Nov. 14, 1911, Lindley married Jane Dunlop, of Marion county, his marriage to the complaining witness not having been dissolved.

Lindley asserts he had been informed that his first wife had obtained a divorce and thought he was at liberty to marry Jane Dunlop, with whom he was living at the time of his arrest.

WANTED TO FIND OUT THE REASON

Gill Went to Police Station and Was Locked Up on Serious Charge.

KIDD ALSO ARRESTED

J. W. Gill, of 3512 Hanna street, went to police station today to find out why the officers were at his home last night and was informed that there was a warrant for his arrest on a serious charge involving Alice Gebhart, who, according to the affidavit against him, is idiotic, epileptic and feeble-minded.

It is charged that he went to the Gebhart home to take some money collected at the Pennsylvania shops and met the girl. Tuesday night, it is charged, he accompanied the girl downtown, bought her some clothing and spent part of the night in a room with her. The police are investigating and may file an affidavit against the proprietor of the house.

Clarence Kidd, a married man with a wife and children at St. Louis, was arrested on the same sort of a charge in which Lois Nierman, a girl under sixteen years, figures. He was locked up today.

Kidd lived at 230 Pearl street and recently came here and has been employed by the Perfection Biscuit company. The police say the girl has left home two or three times and has frequently been reprimanded for being on the street alone late at night. The father made the complaint against Kidd.

COLLEGE LIVING COSTS MORE.

Cornell, Fare One-third Higher Than Sixteen Years Ago.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Cornell students of today pay one-third more for their living than those who attended the university sixteen years ago, according to the annual report of Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, the president, to the board of trustees. He demonstrates clearly that the college man is as much a sufferer from the high prices of food as any other.

Prof. Walter Wilcox furnished the data in Dr. Schurman's report. Dr. Wilcox in his investigations found the Cornell man of today pays an average of $7.35 for his room and board for one week, whereas records show that similar accommodations were to be had in 1895 and 1897 for $5.35.

This increase has come about gradually, the report says, the rate being about 2 per cent a year.

Dr. Schurman is now in Greece as the United States minister there.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Royal Neighbors lodge will give a pedro party Friday evening at Odeon hall.

Mrs. Emil McGregor, of Palatka, Okla., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Lane for a few days.

The St. Joe Athletic club held its fourteenth annual ball in the Elks' auditorium last night. A large crowd enjoyed a good time.

George Middleton, who was severely injured nine weeks ago, was taken to his home today after being confined at Hope hospital since the time of his injury.

Miss Anna Vonderau has accepted the position of bookkeeper at the Lutheran hospital, succeeding Miss Hulda Schultz, of Oak Harbor, who returns to her home to reside.

Maurice C. Niezer will go to Cleveland, O., tomorrow to meet with the directors of the National Hay company. Mr. Niezer holds an interest in the organization.

BUY GOLD IN EUROPE.

London, Nov. 21.—American buyers purchased from $750,000 to $1,000,000 worth of gold on market here today. This will be shipped to New York on board the Carmarvon. It will be bought by the Federal Reserve bank when it is offered and it is believed the sale, which is hardly profitable at the present rate of exchange, is a covering transaction.

CONDITION IS UNCHANGED.

Washington, Nov. 21.—At a late hour today the condition of Senator Isador Rayner, critically ill here, was practically unchanged. The senator was still in a semi-comatose condition.

EISTER'S ASSAILANT ARRESTED.

Armbruster Will Be Brought Back Here for Trial.

The police department received a notice from Chicago today that William Armbruster, who stabbed C. F. Flister in a fight here on Nov. 12, had been apprehended in that city. He will be brought back here for trial as soon as possible. Flister, who was stabbed six times, was discharged from Hope hospital last Tuesday, and has improved rapidly.

SKIN OF TERRIER GRAFTED.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Announcement is made at a south side hospital of the successful outcome of a case of skin grafting in which a large piece of the skin of a skinned terrier was placed over a wound on the arm of Mrs. H. W. Johnson, of Menominee, Wis.

The wound was been left after an operation for tubercular ulcer.

The operation, said to be the first of its kind ever performed, took place ten days ago and Mrs. Johnson has returned to her home, taking with her the dog which had contributed to her convalescence.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

BACK TO ITALY WITH FORTUNE

T. N. Kaffalas to Join Family He Has Not Seen for Seven Years.

FLYER FARE TO BE REDUCED

Two Dollars to Be Lopped Off When Running Time is Lengthened.

T. N. Kaffalas, an Italian, who came to America seven or eight years ago to make a "stat," has accomplished his object and will leave tonight for New York, from whence he will sail for his native land the latter part of next week. Kaffalas owns a little farm near Naples and left his wife and children there while he was working in America. Now he is to return to them with ample money to fix up the home and live ever afterwards in ease and comfort. For the past nine months Kaffalas worked as a machinist's helper in the Pennsylvania erecting shop. He resigned that position last night for the purpose named. Kaffalas' case is not different from many others of his nationality who come to America. All acquire what to them is a snug little fortune in a few years and many of them return to their native country to enjoy the fruits of their toils and privations in this country. On this subject the Warway Times had the following to say a few days ago: "That the foreigners who are employed by the Pennsylvania railroad and who live in this city are good savers is shown by the amounts that they have deposited in the Pennsylvania company's savings bank. After each pay day the section men, at least the majority of them, go directly to the Warsaw depot and deposit their money, keeping out only as much as they will need for the coming month's expenses. Their own share generally is from $15 to $25. Some of the foreigners have on deposit as much as $1,000 and $1,200."

ED TIERNEY SURPRISED.

Shopmates Assist in Celebrating His Birthday. E. E. Tierney, machinist at the Pennsylvania round house, residing at 1839 John street, was host at a stag party last night, the guests being thirty-five of his associates at the shops. Yesterday was Mr. Tierney's forty-sixth birthday.

anniversary and the "boys" took advantage of it to pay their respects to their old friend and incidentally have a night of pleasure. And they were not disappointed in either. They presented Mr. Tierney with a magnificent library table and following the presentation spent the evening playing cards, singing and listening to music by R. J. Miller on the piano and a quartet composed of the clerks at the round house office. Then came the feast. Mr. Tierney has been employed at the Pennsylvania shops and later at the round house for twenty-one years.

DUNGAN TO BE PROMOTED.

Goes to St. Louis as Assistant General Agent.

Z. T. Dungan, division claim agent of the Wabash, with headquarters in Huntington, will go to St. Louis as assistant general claim agent of the company January 1. The office he will assume is a newly created one, the necessity for which has arisen out of the greatly increased passenger and freight traffic on the Wabash lines and the consequent increased duties of B. C. Winston, the company's general claim agent. Mr. Dungan has held his present office for twenty or more years. He is also prominent in municipal affairs in Huntington and was once the mayor of that city. At present he is a member of the school board.

ENGINEER MCCARTHY BETTER.

The condition of Pennsylvania Engineer T. S. McCarthy has so much improved that his complete recovery is assured. He has not been permitted to make the attempt, but Mr. McCarthy says he can walk if the "doctors will let me." It will be remembered that Engineer McCarthy slipped and fell while descending the steps leading to Steve Schallenberger's office in the basement of the freight house building and tore the ligaments of his knees four weeks ago. The severed parts were sewn together by Dr. McKeen and will in time be as good as ever.

ONLY ONE TRAIN AFFECTED.

The winter schedule on the G. R. & I. becomes effective next Sunday. The only train affected so far as Fort Wayne is concerned is No. 8, now scheduled to arrive here at 7 o'clock in the evening and which under the new schedule will come in ten minutes earlier, at 6:50 o'clock. There are, however, a number of changes affecting the trains north of Kalamazoo.

FIRST VACATION IN SIX YEARS.

J. Henry Hille, the Nickel Plate baggage man, is enjoying the first vacation since he assumed the duties of that office, in the spring of 1906, over six years ago. He will be off duty ten days and will divide the time between his home in the city and with relatives in the country. Harry A. Payne

HANDS ITCHED AND BURNED

So Sore Could Not Close Them. Started With Rash. Just Terrible. Broke Into Sores. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Him Entirely.

Abbottford, Wis.—"My son had eczema on his hands for about one year. The eczema started with a rash. His hands were so sore he could not close them, and when he wet his hands they hurt him so he could hardly wash. His hands itched and burned just terrible and if he would scratch them, they would break out into sores. He could not get any rest or sleep, and his hands looked quite bad."

"We had medicine and salve and it kept getting worse all the time. I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after washing his hands with the Cuticura Soap and putting some of the Cuticura Ointment on two times a day and trying to keep them for about six months they got well and have not broken out since. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured him entirely." (Signed) Mrs. Lawrence Kiehl, Feb. 13, 1912.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczema and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough and dry skin, itching, scaly scales, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and chaps on lips, nor do it so economically. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Trade-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick. 35c. Sample free.

will look after the baggage end of the business at the Nickel Plate depot during Mr. Hille's absence.

MACHINISTS TO DANCE.

Friendship lodge, No. 70, International Association of Machinists, will enjoy a social and dance on Wednesday evening, December 4, at the Minnet hall on East Washington street. Arrangements are now under way for the event, the committee assigned the task being composed of Ed Yergens, chairman; Robert Pence, Fred L. Schaeffer, William Starke and Henry Beckler.

REDUCED EXTRA FARE.

With the lengthening of the running time of the Pennsylvania Special, the eighteen-hour train, next Sunday, will come also a corresponding decrease in the extra fare between Fort Wayne and eastern points. The extra fare between this city and New York is now $7, but after next Sunday it will be $5. There will be no charge between Fort Wayne and Chicago.

TAKES JOB WITH NICKLE PLATE.

Harry A. Payne, for several years baggage-master at the interurban station, resigned Saturday and yesterday took employment with the Nickel Plate. During the absence of Baggage-master Henry Hille, who is taking a vacation, Mr. Payne will look after that work and when Mr. Hille returns Mr. Payne will be assigned other duties.

CURTIS BONTNER IMPROVING.

Curtis Bontner, assistant stationmaster at Chicago for the Pennsylvania, who was brought here from Florida and taken to the Lutheran hospital last Sunday very sick, showed decided signs of improvement and may recover. His condition this morning was very encouraging.

TO ST. PAUL ON BUSINESS.

E. E. Greist, assistant master mechanic of the Pennsylvania, will leave tomorrow morning for St. Paul and Minneapolis on business of the company.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

E. P. Wefel, Pennsylvania pipefitter, went to Chicago on business for himself.

Miss Agnes App has taken employment as bookkeeper with the Wayne Knitting mills.

Fred Herbert has resigned his position as night watchman at the Wayne Knitting mills.

Machine-repairer Bauer, who had been sick, resumed his duties at the Wabash shops yesterday.

Louis Neuroth, one of the old employees of the Wabash, is off duty on account of sickness.

Peter Honthelm, a tool dresser in the Wabash shops, is looking after some private business today.

Sickness is keeping C. H. Shuster, A. L. Noble and E. P. Willig from their work in the Pennsylvania shops.

Carl Mennewich, of the Pennsylvania shops, has gone to Pierceton, Ind., to spend a few days shooting rabbits.

E. O. Perry, brickman at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, has gone to Ohio for a week's visit with relatives.

Michael Krook, of the Pennsylvania store room, will be the guest of his sister in Cleveland on Thanksgiving day.

Blacksmith C. E. Rhein, who had a hand hurt a week ago, reported for work at the Pennsylvania shop this morning.

A. L. Hadley, of the engineering department of the Electric works, is in Madison, Wis., on business for the company today.

G. Gerdes had one of his thumbs painfully cut on the sharp end of a file at the Pennsylvania shops yesterday. He is off duty as a result.

Passenger engine No. 609, one of the big Atlantic type of flyers on the Wabash, was turned out of the local shops today after receiving general repairs.

D. D. Miller, L. C. Kilpatrick, Daniel Boland and W. R. Cowell, Pennsylvania engineers, have resumed their duties after a week's absence for various purposes.

Engineer and Mrs. C. E. Misner and their daughter are visiting friends and doing some shopping in Chicago today. Mr. Misner is employed on the Pennsylvania.

R. S. Angsbarger and C. E. Dale, traveling and division storekeepers of the Wabash respectively, went to Peru this morning on business for the department.

Pennsylvania Engineer M. Lager had the misfortune to sprain one of his wrists while doing some chores at home yesterday and is unable to take his run out on the road.

Ed Seibert, who sustained a slight wound on one of his hands last Monday, is now threatened with a serious attack of blood poisoning. The wound became infected and is very painful at present.

James W. Loney, the Wabash pipefitter, who has been suffering from stomach trouble for some time and who has been unable to work for a week, went to the Peru hospital yesterday to take a course of treatment. His condition is not serious.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schaphorst and son, Carl, will go to Chicago tomorrow for an over Sunday visit with relatives and friends. Mr. Schaphorst is the chief clerk in the office of General Foreman H. T. Hogan, of the Pennsylvania machine shop.

According to his shopmates, H. J. Wright, a Pennsylvania machinist, will be Thanksgiving groom. Following the wedding, it is alleged, he and his bride will make a wedding trip to Chicago and Racine, being gone about a week and "when he returns, what we won't do to him will not be much," said one of the boys.

NOT SUCH A PRODIGAL YET.

"I hope you save all your pennies, my boy!" "Naw, I don't save but half of 'em." "Why, you little spendthrift! What do you do with them?" "I buys more papers with 'em."

TURKEY CROP IS SHORT.

Indiana Supply of Thanksgiving Fowl Lighter This Year.

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—From correspondence gathered from all parts of the state by the News, it is estimated that the turkey crop for Thanksgiving a week from today is about 10 per cent. shorter than the crop a year ago. The majority of the correspondents reported that the price is about 2 cents per pound higher now than a year ago.

One correspondent says there are as many turkeys in his territory this year as ever but that the farmers are not marketing them now because of a large supply of beechnuts upon which the turkeys are fattening. Another explains the shortage by stating that the farmers are holding back marketing their fowls until Christmas in the hope of higher prices. Most of the dispatches, however, declare that the shortage is natural, due to a wet late spring.

Farmers are being paid 15 to 20 cents a pound for turkeys on foot, while dressed range from 22 to 25 cents a pound.

Don't Drug Yourself!

This Simple Home Remedy Will Cure Your Cold.

Never take drugs for a cough or cold. The relief they afford is more than offset by their disastrous after-effects. But coughing should be stopped in its first stages before the throat and bronchials become inflamed or permanently diseased.

You can make a soothing remedy that will instantly allay irritation and speedily stop your cough. Shake together in a bottle two ounces of glycerine, eight ounces of pure whiskey and half an ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine. A teaspoonful every four hours is the usual dose, and it can be taken with perfect safety by children as well as by adults.

To protect yourself against substitutes, and insure getting pure and fresh Virgin Oil of Pine, ask your druggist for an original half-ounce sealed vial. These come only in wooden cartons bearing our label.

SAYS CHILDREN ARE MISTREATED

Brutal Usage is Alleged in Grant County Orphanage.

MATRON DENIES IT

Marion, Ind., Nov. 21.—Marion and Grant county people are highly worked up as the result of disclosures concerning conditions existing in the county orphanage.

The self-constituted committee of prominent citizens, all of whom are members of the board of children's guardians and charities and corrections, who have had a quiet investigation of reported conditions at the orphanage in progress for several weeks, and through whom it became known that startling charges reflecting on the management of the home were soon to be made, today made public the resolutions which were adopted by the committee.

The resolutions, which are of a sensational nature, were sent to various county officials by Mrs. Lena McDougall, of Van Duren, whom the committee charged with the task of distributing copies of the resolutions. Ugly accusations are made against those in charge of the institution and changes are strongly recommended by the committee.

Findings of Committee.

The resolutions and conclusions of the committee in full follow:

"We were informed that children were unduly punished for misdemeanors and not otherwise properly treated. A few of the older children of the Orphan's home made statements and a number of other people who have had opportunity to observe testified to the severe punishments administered. The matron of the home herself said that as a punishment and means of discipline, children were sent to bed and that she had thus confined a girl, 15 years old, one week. The girl to whom this punishment was administered said that she was kept in bed nine days as a punishment."

"In making the investigation regarding another complaint we found that adhesive plaster was used to seal the mouth of a child for one day as a means of discipline."

"We further found that whipping was resorted to, to a severe degree, leaving marks in a number of cases which remained several days. We made an investigation in the case of a small child and found marks on her body at least two weeks following the whipping. We found upon investigation that two children had been severely whipped because of kidney trouble."

Food is Insufficient.

"We found that the provisions supplied to the children should be given prompt attention. The evidence submitted was conclusive and showed that many times the table supply by no means provided a sufficient amount of nourishing food."

The matron of the institution denies the charge of cruelty and asserts that the children are well fed and that punishment is administered only when necessary.

REBEKAH QUESTION DEFERRED.

Indiana Odd Fellows Again Put Up Bars Against Saloonkeepers.

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—Plans of the Rebekah lodge to gain representation in the meetings of the grand lodge, I. O. O. F., of Indiana, were frustrated, at least for a period of six months, at the session of the grand lodge yesterday, when it voted to leave the question to the disposal of the next grand lodge session.

For the second time the Odd Fellows went on record in opposition to saloonkeepers becoming members of the order. Robert Quinn, a member of Georgetown lodge, No. 941, was dismissed because his occupation was that of tending bar in a saloon in Louisville. He appealed to the grand lodge of the state at the meeting last year.

The election in the grand lodge will take place probably today. According to the custom of succession to office, H. W. Carpenter, of Petersburg, will become grand master and W. M. Nauer, of Vernon, deputy grand master. Nine contestants have been named for the office of grand warden, which is the stepping stone to the higher chairs. They are H. A. Winterrowd, Indianapolis; J. T. Arbuckle, Rushville; G. G. Sherwood, Valparaiso; J. W. Trittip, Fortville; W. W. Swank, Wingate; R. T. Miller, South Bend; C. J. Robb, Michigan City; John Lafolette, Portland; Jesse MacBeth, Fort Wayne.

Candidates for officers below grand warden are: W. H. Leedy, Indianapolis, grand secretary; W. A. Morris, Frankfort, grand treasurer; J. L. Harmon, Elkhart, grand representative for one year; J. M. Stipp, Michigan City, and George P. Bornwasser, New Albany, grand representative for two years; Marcellus A. Chipman, Anderson, trustee.

L. F. Bennett, of Anderson, governor-general of the Junior Order of Moose, is in the city organizing a junior Moose class.

PORTRAYS HORROR OF CHOLERA CAMP

Heartrending Scenes of Misery Among Stricken Turks.

Constantinople, Nov. 21.—Heartrending scenes of suffering and misery are enacted daily at the Turkish cholera camp at San Stefano. The correspondent of the Associated Press, accompanied by the secretary of a foreign embassy and by Major Clyde S. Ford, U. S. A., who is here on leave of absence, paid a visit there today.

Much skepticism had prevailed in Pera, the foreign quarter of Constantinople, both among members of the diplomatic corps and foreign residents. No one there believed the figures given by railroad employees and others in contact with the Turkish army, who declared that many thousands were stricken with cholera. No reliable figures were obtainable from official sources, and in the absence of these reports were regarded as grossly exaggerated.

The camp is situated at the side of a railway embankment thirty feet in height. A large open space like a village green stretches away for some distance. This is surrounded by better class houses two or three stories high, built in European style, for San Stefano is the summer resort of many of the more wealthy foreign residents of Constantinople. Two Ottoman soldiers were standing on guard at the entrance to the camp but they never made a motion. Their duty was to prevent those within the cordon from escaping and not to hinder other people from entering.

A nauseating picture was witnessed at the side of the railroad. The bodies which had been thrown from trains lay as they had fallen. Some had stuck on the top of the embankment, others had rolled part of the way down and some had reached the bottom.

Some of the corpses lay stiffly alone. Others were in groups of threes or fours. Around a one-story stable at the foot of the embankment was a group of sixty dead and dying lying close together, apparently for warmth on the slopes of a manure pile which the sick men had found softer than the hard ground. One man on top of the pile was digging with his fingers a sort of trough in which to lie. The trough soon became his grave. As the visitors came near one victim attempted to crawl across the road to the crowded manure heap but failed and fell in the roadway. Others lying around raised their heads and cried, in the hearing of all, that they were given no bread or water.

Walking half way across the field the visitors passed dead and dying men, sometimes at intervals of a yard, sometimes from twenty to thirty yards apart.

Sick and Dead Lay in Groups.

A group of tents stood in the center where four or five Turkish soldiers wearing the armpiece of the Red Crescent stood on guard. Inside the sick and dead lay in groups. The doctor on duty counted twenty-two patients in one tent while double that number lay just outside sheltered from the wind to leeward of the canvas.

Some of the stricken men found difficulty in getting into the Moslem position for prayer looking toward the east. One praying victim was so weak that he could not replace his blanket around his head when the wind blew it off.

The Red Crescent attendants made no attempt to assist any of these suffering soldiers, not even placing stones, which were plentiful, under their heads to permit them to lie easier.

A number of these attendants gathered round to watch while the visitors were inspecting the camp. One of them became insolent and was ordered off by the doctor.

A water tank drawn by a donkey passed along the road. Those of the victims who were able to rise to their feet went unassisted toward it and struggled for a drink. Those unable to rise got none.

Many Unable to Get Bread.

In a similar way what appeared to be army bread was distributed to those able to reach the place of distribution.

Several of the sick men raised themselves with difficulty and stumbled toward a wall, from which they tried to dip water with their long sashes, wetting the ends and moistening their parched mouths with them.

There were hundreds of dead and thousands of sick in this camp, many of them lying on the open ground and great numbers supporting their backs against the houses bordering the open fields, most of which are deserted.

The comparatively few Turkish soldiers brought to the hospitals, barracks and mosques at Constantinople are more fortunate, although most of them die after reaching their destination. Some few of them are given beds to lie on, and water to drink, and all of them if they do not get warmth are provided with shelter from the winds and the rain. San Stefano is not the worst cholera camp. That at Hademkei, near the Tebatalla lines, is still more extensive. How many patients are there is not known, but it is certain that there are many thousands, and most of these Anatolians come from Asia Minor to fight for the defense of the Ottoman capital.

TO RETIRE FROM JEWELRY TRADE

Mr. Green to Engage in the Manufacture of Optical Goods.

TO AUCTION STOCK

After twenty years of success in the retail jewelry business in Fort Wayne, Dallas Green is preparing to retire, to engage in the manufacture of optical goods. The entire stock in his store will be sold at auction, beginning next Saturday.

Announcement of Mr. Green's retirement from the retail field in the city comes as a great surprise to his business friends and associates. Mr. Green opened his store in Fort Wayne twenty years ago and for more than seventeen years was located in the Arcade, on West Berry street. When the Shoup building was completed he moved his stock into the present handsome quarters in Indiana and is the largest owned by one individual.

The sale of the stock will begin Saturday afternoon and will continue until sold out. Mr. Green has not selected at this time his manufacturing plant lease on his present quarters.

In Manufacturing Field. Mr. Green recently invented and patented four articles used by wearers of eyeglasses. Some time ago he started manufacturing them, and as the demand increased, he engaged more extensively in the business. His now has a workshop in the basement of his stock, a force of workmen engaged and daily increasing the output of such products.

The business that his entire time is devoted to attending to it. One of the principal and most popular of Mr. Green's inventions is an automatic contrivance for holding eyeglasses when not in use. It is a small metal case containing a chain to which the glasses are fastened. The case is pinned to a coat lapel or dress and when the wearer desires to use his glasses, the chain is pulled out to any desired length. Devices of similar nature have been on the market for some time, but Mr. Green's is smaller, more artistic and has many new features of improvement.

WAR DEPARTMENT LIKES NEW FLAG

It Also Likes Modern Betsy Ross Who Planned New Design.

CHANGE IN FIELD

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 21.—Waving over one of Germantown's old mansions is the first flag designed by Wayne Whipple, the historian. The crowded field of stars in the present flag has long troubled the authorities at Washington, but it has not been possible to design a field that will provide for a suitable arrangement of the stars and still permit of the addition of more stars as new states are admitted. Mr. Whipple's design makes this possible.

President Taft invited Mr. Whipple to the white house, saw the design for the rearrangement of the stars and referred the matter to the war department, the proper authorities in such matters. The war department expressed instant approval of the new design.

The thirteen stars in the center, placed in the form of a six-pointed star, stand for the thirteen original states. The circle is composed of twenty-five stars, standing for the twenty-five states admitted during the hundred years—1776 to 1876. Washington is the authority for placing the stars in a circle. In the first flag designed by him and made by Betsy Ross there were thirteen stars in a circle.

Mrs. Peter Holan, 11501 Buckeye Rd., Cleveland, O., says: "Yes, indeed I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. My little boy had a bad case of whooping cough, some times he was blue in the face. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and it had a remarkable effect and cured him in a short time." Remember the name, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and do not accept any substitute. Children like it, grown folks are quickly helped by it, and it contains no opiates. Dreier Drug Co.—Adv.

DEER IS TRAPPED IN A RESERVOIR

Leaps High Fence When Chased by Dogs—Sensational Rescue.

COULD NOT GET OUT

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Chased by pack of dogs, a terrified deer leaped over a four-foot wire fence surrounding the reservoir of the Lullithgo hatchery, in Columbia county, tumbled down the sloping side of a ten-foot stone wall and into the water, from which it was rescued by employees.

"Sam" Craig, a fish warden, was making his daily round of the reservoir when he saw the deer standing in two feet of water. It was looking about helplessly. When Craig showed no signs of going to the rescue the deer splashed through the water toward him and made a valiant effort to leap to the top of the ten-foot stone wall, but the attempt

SAFE REMEDY ENDS CATARRH MISERIES

Gives Instant Relief, Cures and Prevents Catarrh and Cold in the Head.

The quickest, best and safest way to cure catarrh or a cold in the head is by using a remedy that will "touch the spot" and do its work quickly without leaving any bad effects. Ely's Cream Balm, which is applied to the nostrils or rubbed on the throat or chest gets right at the root of the trouble and instantly relieves even the worst case of catarrh or cold. A few minutes after applied you can feel a loosening up in the head, the pain and soreness is one, the sense of taste, smell and hearing come back and you feel like a different person.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, heals and strengthens the inflamed membranes, takes away the stuffed up feeling and dull pain in the head, relieves the throat soreness and stops the nasty discharge which is the cause of the disgusting hacking, spitting, blowing of the nose, and foul breath. Hay fever victims who are made miserable by fits of sneezing, coughing and wheezing get instant and permanent relief by the use of this simple remedy.

Don't suffer another minute. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve you immediately, and a 50 cent bottle will more than likely work a complete cure. All druggists sell it. Agents, Meyer Bros. Co.—Adv.

was useless because on top of the wall was a four-foot wire fence.

Dr. Tarleton H. Bean, state fish culturist, was inspecting the hatcheries that day and suggested "seining out" the deer, but this was not thought feasible. Finally it was lassoed with a rope and ten men hauled it out. Once free the deer set all forest speed records at naught by a dash through the hatchery grounds and away to its haunts, apparently none the worse for the swim.

Dr. Dean became interested in the manner in which the deer got into the water, and learned that it had been pursued by dogs and in fright leaped clear of the reservoir wall and into the water. The deer evidently was as terrified at the strange trap into which it had plunged as it had been by the dogs. One of a pack of wild dogs was shot later in the night by a hatchery employee. Deer are becoming plentiful in several sections of Columbia county.

Boys Discover Notes and Jewelry in Hollow Tree.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 21.—Ashley and Stirling Cockhill and Frank Fiesma, young sons of Little Rock citizens, found in a hollow tree notes and jewelry taken from the home of J. L. Atkins, a cotton buyer, amounting to about $4,000, when the house was entered recently.

The boys were playing "Robin Hood." They lost their arrow and finally found it in the hollow of an oak tree. The missing jewels were wrapped in a cloth beside the arrow.

There are still missing several large diamonds, valued at $2,000.

NINETY-ONE IN FINAL CLASSES

Scottish Rite Convocation Nears End With Many Present.

SHRINERS ARE NEXT

The annual fall convocation of Scottish Rite Masons of the Valley of Fort Wayne ends this evening, when a class of ninety-one members will receive the thirty-second degree, or the highest work of the order that can be conferred outside of the supreme council. Officers in charge of the work this evening will be William Geake, Albert E. Thomas, B. Paul Mossman, Brown Cooper, Judge R. K. Erwin, Ronald Dawson, J. J. Kline, E. F. Liebman, E. P. Dailey, W. S. Sponshauer, George W. Pixley, Charles E. Reed and Con Keller.

Owing to the fact that the Indianapolis convocation is in session this week, the gathering here was not attended as well as the spring convocation. Hundreds of out-of-town Masons, however, were in the city during the three days of the meeting and many will remain until tomorrow night, for the purpose of attending the ceremonial session of Mizpah temple, Ancient Arabic order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, to be held tomorrow.

Beginning this morning at 9 o'clock with the work of the twenty-ninth degree, or Knight of St. Andrew, each grade up to and including the thirty-second followed in succession.

Since the first of the year the following Scottish Rite Masons in this district passed away: Ben S. Woodworth, Jacob P. Sanders, W. J. Probasco, Albert J. Piepenbrink, John H. Vesey, George T. Menish, Will S. Rogers, Dan F. Hauss, David E. Carruth, W. A. Current, W. W. Orrock, William B. Hale, Albert E. Carroll, Haswell D. Rose and Sylvester W. Hull.

The convocation banquet, served Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in the spacious dining hall of the Scottish Rite cathedral, was attended by more than nine hundred Masons. The room was beautifully decorated in Masonic emblems, and during the feast music was rendered by the Schlatter orchestra.

Ronald Dawson presided as toastmaster, and after the invocation had been pronounced by Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, Rev. C. Claude Travis spoke to members of the class of one hundred candidates, referring to the work they had just taken and congratulating them upon their rise in Masonry.

In behalf of the class Judge John H. Aiken delivered an impressive and interesting address, thanking the Masons assembled for interest they had shown the candidates, and in closing discussed at some length the good of Masonry. Other toasts were responded to by Congressman Cyrus Cline, of Angola; J. L. McCulloch, a thirty-third degree Mason, of Marion, and William Geake, of this city.

At the close of the feast the assembly adjourned to the lodge rooms, where the Fort Wayne consistory conducted its work. The second day's program closed with the work of the twenty-first degree.

The Shrine Ceremonial Mizpah Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will hold its ceremonial session tomorrow at the Scottish Rite cathedral. The annual business session will be held at 11 o'clock and the usual pilgrimage across the hot sands will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A large class of candidates is expected to take up the trail.

During the work of the ceremonial, the Arab patrol and Nomad band, under the direction of Captain E. H. Kilbourne will figure prominently in the services. The patrol will give for the first time a number of new drills planned especially for the occasion by Captain Kilbourne. The traditional banquet will be served in the cathedral dining hall at 8 o'clock.

The divan of officers of Mizpah temple is as follows: Illustrious potentate, E. H. Merritt; chief rabban, Arthur F. Hall; assistant rabban, Myron Downing; high priest and prophet, Walter E. Cook; oriental guide, Byron H. Somers; treasurer, George W. Pixley; recorder, Charles E. Reed; first ceremonial master, Max J. Blitz; second ceremonial master, Ed M. Wilson; director, Albert S. Bond; marshal, W. C. Rastetter; captain of the guard, Wallace E. Doud; outer guard, Charles A. Meigs.

month caused another explosion at Los Angeles and ten other explosions followed before the arrests in April, 1911. Tried to Kill Him.

In the escape from the Wisconsin woods McManigal said James B. a second time attempted to kill him.

"He wanted me to hold up a tin can and let him shoot a hole through it," said McManigal. "I told him to put a hole through himself if he wanted to kill anybody."

McManigal also stated that in escaping from Los Angeles after blowing up the Times building, James B., going by way of San Francisco, dropped four infernal machines in the bay between San Francisco and Oakland.

"When I saw James B. in company of the detectives I thought the game was up," said McManigal. "I told James B. he probably had told them everything and I was going to quit right there. That was why he wanted me to hold up the can for him to shoot at."

Dropped Bombs in Bay.

Telling of his experiences at Los Angeles, James B. said he would have put a bomb in the Times auxiliary plant if he could have located it that night. He said leaving Los Angeles he went to San Francisco to get money and remained there four days. Crossing to Oakland on his way east, he said he threw four infernal machines in the bay to get rid of them. He stopped at Salt Lake City and remained two weeks with J. E. Munsey.

McManigal previously had said the first day they arrived in the Wisconsin woods to hide James B. "took a shot" at him.

Parts of infernal machines found in the wrecks of bridges and buildings in various cities were exhibited at the dynamite conspiracy trial today. W. E.

Griffith, chief of police of Kansas City, Mo., identified an infernal machine lost by Orlio E. McManigal in a swamp near the Missouri river after McManigal had blown up part of a bridge. Chief Griffith said after the explosion on Aug. 23, 1910, he caused the arrest of V. Bert Brown and Wm. J. McCain, local union officials, but the prisoners, after making a statement recorded by stenographers, refused to sign it. The statement, which was not read, was introduced by the government. Henry W. Legittner, Denver, Col., a member of the iron workers' executive board, when arrested last winter, admitted the union officials expended money without giving an accounting to the members, according to Samuel A. Meyer. Meyer testified he asked Legittner about the $1,000 which the government charges was used by J. J. McNamara for dynamiting.

"He replied he thought an inner circle of officials in the union controlled the finances," said Meyer. "He also said President Frank M. Ryan had authority to pay out money when the executive board was not in session and no accounting was given of the $1,000 a month paid to McNamara."

ALIENISTS WILL REPORT.

Schrank's Trial to Be Called at Milwaukee Tomorrow.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 21.—The trial of John Schrank, charged with attempting to kill Col. Theodore Roosevelt, will be proceeded with tomorrow morning, according to an announcement by Judge A. C. Bakus in the municipal court. The commission of alienists which has been examining into Schrank's mental condition will, it is expected, be ready to report at that time.

FIGURES FROM KANSAS.

Wilson's Official Lead Over Roosevelt 23,547.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 21.—Woodrow Wilson carried Kansas by a plurality of 23,547 over Roosevelt. Taft was 49,279 behind Roosevelt. The official figure is given out by the secretary of state today as follows: Wilson, democrat, 143,670; Roosevelt, progressive, 120,123; Taft, republican, 74,844; Debs, socialist, 26,807. Debs carried Crawford county. The first time in the history of the state a socialist has carried a Kansas county.

INSTITUTE NEW LODGE.

Buffaloes Have Big Order at Van Wert, Ohio.

Two hundred members of the Fort Wayne lodge of Buffaloes, accompanied by the Citizens' band, went to Van Wert, O., Wednesday night and instituted a new lodge with one hundred members. The trip was made in two chartered cars on the lines of the Ohio Electric.

DIED IN NEBRASKA HOSPITAL.

Columbia City, Ind., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Fanny Swartz, aged 73 years, widow of John Swartz, who left this county forty-five years ago for Iowa, and has since resided in the west, died Tuesday afternoon in a hospital at Omaha, Neb., after a prolonged illness, due to various complications.

Referee Sol A. Wood has appointed Attorney D. Burns Douglass as trustee for the estate of Amos E. Houk, bankrupt, to succeed Samuel L. Morris, jr., who was unable to accept the trusteeship on account of other business necessitating his attention.

ONLY the artistic interpretation, the musical versatility, and the wonderful scope of the living fingers of a master-pianist can compare with the exquisite playing of the TEL-ELECTRIC, the most perfect mechanically, as well as the most artistic, musically, of all piano players.

Mechanical music is impossible with the Tel-Electric Piano Player

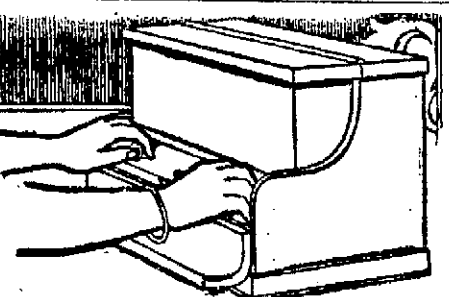

It is the one player which you, yourself, whether an expert musician or not, can quickly and easily learn to play with all the individuality of a master-pianist. It permits you to interpret, perfectly, world-famous compositions with all the original feeling, all of the technique, and with all the various shades and depths of expression as intended by the composer. In using electricity as the motive force of the Tel-Electric, we not only eliminated the tiresome foot-pumping and noisy bellows of the pneumatic player, but we place the instrument under your absolute control, ready to answer instantly your slightest musical whim. The Tel-Electric, though radically different, has proved itself infinitely superior to any player on the market—consider these exclusive features:

Requires no pumping—can be attached to any piano—absolutely perfect and instantaneous expression devices—does not obstruct the keyboard—uses indestructible music rolls—totally unaffected by weather-changes—has never been replaced by any other piano-player—any piano with a Tel-Electric attached costs less than a player-piano of the same grade.

Gallows Win in Oregon, But "Boy Governor" Will Keep Up Fight to Make Men of Convicts.

"I Have no Quarrel With People's Verdict," he says—And He's Going to Hang as Many Condemned Men at One Time as Possible for an Object Lesson.

Salem, Ore., Nov. 21.—One out of every three voters in Oregon believe it is neither humane, nor good economics to hang men by the neck until they are dead.

Oswald West, Oregon's wiry young fighting governor is one of these. He proposed a law, under the initiative, abolishing capital punishment, and had it put up to the voters at the general election this month. It was turned down 2 to 1.

West was disappointed, but not at all discouraged. The law proposed by him was a very vital part of a program of prison reform that has made the Oregon governor nationally prominent. More than two years ago, but a little while after he had been elected, West began tearing down the old, worn-out, brutal prison system in Oregon and substituting humanity for barbarism.

Forced to radical measures by the overcrowded condition of the state penitentiary, he inaugurated an "honor system" with astonishing results. Prisoners were known to have been whipped to death in the old days. West stopped that. There is not a whip in the state prison now. Chains and stripes were abolished. Convicts who had shown themselves worthy of a chance were put to work outside the prison walls, without guards, on their word that they would not "throw the governor down." They went to work in brick yards, on farms, roads and public works, and were paid for their work. In more than a year only three broke their word to the governor and attempted to escape. One of these West, unaided, ran down and captured.

West made it his business to know and understand every convict in the prison. He mixed rigid discipline with human kindness. The deserving got their chance. The "boy governor" was always willing to listen to the troubles of the convicts and to give advice. He braved storm after storm of criticism for commuting sentences and staying executions. He was making good with his square deal policy, making men out of down-and-outers, and through the work of the convicts out on their honor was putting the prison in a fair way to become self-supporting.

Then he told Oregon that in his opinion, as a matter of good economics, if nothing else, capital punishment should be abolished, legalized murder by the state stopped. He gave the voters the record of his prison reforms, explained what he was aiming at and left them to decide. Two to one, they decided against him.

Governor Oswald West of Oregon snapped during one of his frequent visits to the penitentiary. He is listening to a convict's request to be allowed a chance under the honor system. West knows every convict in the penitentiary by first and last name. West's system of simple humanity has proved wonderfully successful in the Oregon prisons.

BY OSWALD WEST.

I regret, of course, that the electorate of Oregon have seen fit to perpetuate the barbaric custom of hanging in the state, but, though my conscience tells me that the verdict is wrong, morally and economically, I have no quarrel with it and will abide by it. Hanging as a rule will be the order of the day in Oregon during the remainder of my term in office.

The failure to abolish hanging will have no direct effect upon my policy of prison reform, however. Those means and measures which, during the past two years, have been adopted for the reformation of the convict and his establishment as a law abiding citizen will not be modified or abandoned. They have proved themselves to be effective and even more successful than was anticipated. During my administration the Oregon penitentiary, if I can accomplish it, will be a school of citizenship and not a school of crime; a hospital for the treatment and cure of criminals, rather than a place of vindictive punishment and recruiting station for super-hardened and perverted criminal mankind.

The brutalizing effect of capital punishment on the community in general and the convict in particular, will, I regret to say, militate against prison reform. The best results cannot be secured when regenerative and reformative doctrines are taught beneath the scaffold and in the face of vindictive and medieval vengeance. The spirit of hatred and revolt against constituted authority with which the minds of convicted men become inoculated through the degrading sights and scenes incident upon executions is hard to eradicate or overcome. In this indirect manner every hanging makes reformatory work harder and more uncertain of definite result. Nevertheless, and in the face of this condition, the work of prison reform will go forward in Oregon and will demonstrate, I am confident, the absolute success and absolute economic utility of the plan.

OSWALD WEST.

DECEMBER 13 OREGON'S BLACK FRIDAY.

December 13 is to be Oregon's Black Friday. On that day seven men, now in the death chamber at the penitentiary at Salem, are to be hanged. They would have gone to the noose several months ago had it not been for the efforts of Governor West. He relieved them for a period long enough to give the people an opportunity to wipe out the capital punishment law at the polls. They voted 2 to 1 for hanging and West is ready to obey the will of the people.

Friday, the 13th of December, will furnish a dreadful object lesson in the barbarism of the gallows. "I am sorry," says West, with a grim sarcasm which hides his bitter disappointment, "that the seating capacity of our death chamber is so limited, for we undoubtedly will be obliged to turn away many who have been looking forward to this event."

OLD INDIAN LAND TO BE SOLD OFF

1,937,000 Acres in Tract to Be Released First of the Year.

BIG AS TWO STATES

Antlers, Okla., Nov. 21.—It is announced that the sale of the segregated Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian lands, the last great land opening in Oklahoma, will take place after January 1 next. Final arrangements are now being completed, and every town and village in the segregated district is alive to the opportunities in the big auction.

The counties forming the district have organized an association to assist the government in every possible way. The segregated district is composed of a four hundred mile stretch of fertile plains, verdant meadows, forests and mountains that rest above a rich mineral field, streams of abundant gypsum, cement, rock asphalt, lime, brick, shale, clays and marble. It consists of 1,937,000 acres, or 8,000 acres more than the combined areas of Delaware and Rhode Island.

One-half of the known coal deposits in Oklahoma are within the borders of the old Choctaw reservation. Of the 445,000 acres of this land 105,000 acres are now under lease to coal companies and only partly developed. Most of the leases have fifteen or twenty years to run and at the termination their disposition will be made by congress. Under the present lease system the coal companies pay the government a royalty of eight cents a ton.

In addition to the 445,000 acres of mineral and coal land, there will be released by the same sale 1,292,000 acres of segregated timber lands, and approximately 200,000 acres of unallotted lands. It is estimated the timber lands contain 170,000,000 feet of hardwood and 1,086,000 feet of pine. About half of the timbered area has approximately 3,000,000 feet of timber available for market.

It required nearly six years to segregate this land. Joseph A. Taft, of the United States Geological Survey, passed five years estimating and mapping out the coal deposits. The value of the coal deposits has been a much mooted question. Government estimates place the deposit at 8,000,000,000 tons. Senator Robert La Follette in 1908 declared he believed the coal had a value of $2 a ton at the mouth of the mine. Under the leasing system, whereby a royalty of eight cents a ton is collected, this amount of coal would bring the Choctaws $250,000,000.

The government has appraised the total 1,280,102 acres of timber land at $3,783,437, or at $2.93 1/2 an acre. Coal county has 53,939 acres of segregated coal lands; Atoka, 25,411 acres; Pushmataha, 379,000,000 feet of pine and 31,000,000 feet of hardwood; McCurtain, 304,000,000 feet of hardwood; Latimer, 54,997 acres of coal lands, 74,000,000 feet of pine and 4,000,000 feet of hardwood; Pittsburg, 113,275 acres of segregated coal lands; LeFlore, 144,465 acres of segregated coal land, 244,000,000 feet of pine and 36,000,000 feet of hardwood timber; Haskell, 45,480 acres of segregated coal lands.

SOME LINGUIST, IS COUNTLESS CAN TALK ENGLISH WITH WEEK'S STUDY.

COUNTRESS ALMEIDA.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 19.—The Countess Candido Mendez de Almeida, wife of the head of the Brazilian agricultural department, has the distinction of being probably the only woman to whom a reception has been tendered at which all the women in a large city were invited.

Usually such affairs are exclusive "society" events with financial magnates, railroad owners and various plutocrats and their wives in attendance.

When the countess arrived in San Diego, Cal., on a tour of this country with her husband, a reception was given in the city's biggest hotel and the reception committee told all the women in the city that they were invited. They attended, several thousand of them.

Countess Almeida has the added distinction of having learned to converse in English fairly well with a week of study.

PET POODLES AND SOME LIVE STOCK

Postoffice Preparing to Start
New 'Parcels' Post.

SAID TO BE BIG JOB

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Employees of the postoffice department drafted for the task are working double time to install the parcels post service by January 1 next. It is an enormous undertaking.

Presses of the geological survey are turning out special maps at the rate of 5,000 a day, and manufacturers of scales are struggling to fill contracts for 35,000 sets of special scales.

The government's bureau of engraving and printing is staggering under a hurry order for early delivery of a new series of parcels post stamps in twelve denominations.

As fast as maps are printed they are delivered to the division of topography of the postoffice department, where the eight postal zones—into which the parcels post section of the postoffice appropriation bill divided the country—are stamped upon them.

Then, in tubes, they are mailed to postmasters. Each of 65,000 postmasters—first, second, third and fourth class—will get two of these maps, with an accompanying rate book.

After a look at the map and a glance at the rate book the postmaster can tell the charge for shipping any package accepted. Little confusion is expected as to rates.

First deliveries of scales are to be made within two weeks, and at once thereafter will be sent to the postmasters. The scales in use in the postal service do not record weights above the present four-pound limit of mail matter.

Final Regulations Soon

The weight limit of packages under the parcels post system will be eleven pounds. However, anticipating an increase of the limit as the service becomes popular, the new scales are to weigh accurately up to twenty pounds.

Only 35,000 sets of the new scales have been contracted for, because many of the smaller postoffices are in stores. For the present those postmasters having their own scales will not be equipped at Uncle Sam's expense.

The parcels post law rigidly requires special stamps. Parcels will not be accepted unless stamped with stickers of the oblong design accepted for the new service.

The parcels post stamps somewhat resemble the stamps used during the Louisiana purchase exposition at St. Louis. They are being printed in denominations of 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 50 and 75 cents and $1.

Postmaster General Hitchcock said he expects to issue the final regulations governing the service within two weeks.

The law says:

"That hereafter fourth-class mail matter shall embrace all other matter, including farm and factory products, not now embraced by law in either the first, second or third class, not exceeding eleven pounds in weight, not greater in size than 72 inches in length or girth combined, not in form or kind likely to injure the person of any postal employee or damage the mail equipment or other mail matter and not of a character perishable within a period reasonably required for transportation and delivery."

Traveling Menageries May Be.

It is in the detailed interpretation of the statute that the postmaster general is engaged. Apparently the farmer can send eggs, chickens, ducks, kittens, butter, honey, bees or puppies, possums or foxes, or anything not too heavy, too large or too dangerous.

It looks as if the fisherman could post his fish, frogs, tadpoles, oysters, crabs, terrapins or what not.

The merchant and manufacturer, presumably, will be allowed to ship any article not over large or bulky and not dangerous. But it is within the discretion of the postmaster general, for instance, to prescribe how articles shall be packed, how presented for shipment, and so on.

It is likely Mr. Hitchcock will use his authority to prevent the indiscriminate shipment, for example, of young shoats with only a tag tied to their forelegs. The mail cars will not be made travelling menageries for the accommodation of the feathered and furred tribes, whether wild or tame.

The postal authorities ask the public to remember this fact—only fourth-class mail matter can be shipped in the parcels post. The law remains as formerly as to first, second and third-class mail. Books and printed matter cannot be accepted at the parcels post rate.

$750,000 Starting Appropriation.

Smooth working of the new service from the outset is not guaranteed. Congress provided the postmaster general with only $750,000 with which to inaugurate an enormous system of deliveries covering a million miles of rural delivery and star routes.

Nearly all of the $750,000 has been spent. In his estimates of the cost of operating the postoffice department for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1913, Mr. Hitchcock figured $7,200,000 needed to complete the installation and to carry on the operations of the parcels post.

Last Christmas—and the step again will be taken this year—the postmasters of the larger cities were allowed to make a departure in handling the heavy Yuletide mail.

They were permitted to employ local delivery wagons to assist the regular wagons of the department in collecting and delivering.

As the need appears after January 1, when the parcels service begins, this will be done in connection with the regular parcels mail.

If the cost threatens to outrun the funds of the department, appeal will be made to congress for an emergency appropriation.

One State Gouged for Between 200 and 400 Per Cent. Annual Profit by Express Company—"Same Condition Exists Throughout Country," Says Expert.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO HAVE THIS GOLD MINE?

Total expense in California for one month, exclusive of the cost of traveling messengers $386,162.39
Value of property used in the express business 714,257.24
Average gross monthly revenue 729,672.90
Total expense deducted from total revenue leaves a net monthly profit of 340,459.51

ONE OF THE WELLS FARGO PROFIT EARNERS AND PHOTOGRAPH OF JOHN R. ESHELMAN, HEAD OF CALIFORNIA'S RAILROAD COMMISSION, WHICH IS PROBING THE EXORBITANT PROFITS OF THE COMPANY IN THE STATE.

EXPRESS COMPANIES HAVE PROFITABLE BUSINESS.

Here is the average ratio of operating income to cost of real property and equipment for three years ending 1911 for each of the largest express companies in the United States as reported by the Interstate commerce commission:

	Per Cent.
Wells Fargo Co.	65.30
Adams Express Co.	26.89
American Express Co.	27.11
United States Exp. Co.	17.57
Southern Express Co.	372.50

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 19.—California has discovered that an express company returns far greater returns than any gold mine ever worked.

Recently the railroad commission of California, which has jurisdiction over public service corporations, began delving into the rates charged by the Wells Fargo company in its express service throughout the state.

The first fact brought out was that the express company clears between 200 and 400 per cent a year on the capital invested. Suppose that a grocer has $5,000 invested in a store. If he should make the same percentage that the Wells Fargo people do he would clear each year three times what he had in the business, or $15,000.

The railroad commission went still further and found that there was no real basis for any rates charged by the company. For instance: From Los Angeles to Hemet is 102 miles and the express rate is $1, while from San Francisco to Lodi, one mile further, the rate is 50 cents.

Wells Fargo company was asked upon what it based these charges, and the company official admitted that he didn't know.

It developed during the hearing that the express company collected packages at one end and delivered them at the other, turning over to the Southern Pacific company 40 per cent of the amount charged the shipper for the railroad's part in the work, hauling the cars. Aside from the collection and delivery of packages the express company had no expense except a purely nominal one of assuming risk for loss and furnishing a messenger with each car load of express.

"The people pay the bill," declared William R. Wheeler, traffic expert, who has been watching the investigation closely on behalf of the San Francisco chamber of commerce.

"Just what they base their rates on nobody has yet been able to discover. Perhaps, like Topsey, they just 'grovled'."

"Does the same condition exist in other states as exists here in regard to excessive express charges?" Mr. Wheeler was asked, and he answered without hesitation.

"The same conditions exist in practically every state in the union."

California is the home of the Wells Fargo company. After it started here it gradually worked eastward.

"There is but a trifle more expense, so far as the actual work of the express company is concerned, in a long haul and a short haul," continued Mr. Wheeler. "Suppose that the charge per 100 pounds between San Francisco and

New York is $13.50. In San Francisco the express company collects the package and at New York delivers it. En route it furnishes a messenger. That is the extent of its work. The railroad does the hauling and receives $8.75, or 50 per cent, of the total charged the shipper. Now from Yonkers to New York is approximately 30 miles, and I believe the express rate between those two points is 50 cents. In handling a package between New York and Yonkers the express company does identically the same work, no more or no less, than it does in handling the package on the long haul. Now, why should they receive in one instance $8.75 for the collection and delivery of a package and only 25 cents for the same work in the other instance? There is no just reason for it except that the express business has grown and the people have stood for excessive charges.

"Express service is a fast service and it is right that the charge should be greater than the charge for freight, which takes its own time, but at the same time even-express charges should be just."

California's railroad commission is going to find out all about that 400 per cent profit before it gets through with the investigation and it is freely predicted that when it does finish the probe that express rates will be considerably lower, and that the 400 per cent profit will have dwindled considerably.

EAT WITHOUT FEAR! NO SICK, SOUR, GASSY STOMACH OR INDIGESTION

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly, ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, let this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Diapepsin is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

MUSICAL COMEDY IN THE KITCHEN.

Our coffee-pot and our tea-kettle make
A wonderful bet each day;
Each thinks as a singer he has the other
Beaten to a fade-a-way.
So side by side each screeches his song
Believing a record he breaks;
While the frying-pan sits and hisses them on,
As he generously holds the steaks.

STUDENTS EXPECT A HOT DEBATE

Will Argue Suffrage Question at High School on December 16.

HIGH SCHOOL GOSSIP

The students of the Fort Wayne High school are enthusiastic over a debate which will be held on Dec. 16. The question will be: "Resolved, That women should vote in the United States." The defenders of the affirmative side of this question are to be: Miss Dorothy Detzer, Miss Bessie Rowe and Miss Agnes Mahurin. Joe Fields, Franklin Randall and Joe Salom will tell all of the reasons why women should not vote in this country. This promises to be one of the best debates to be held at the high school during the winter, and a large crowd is expected to be in attendance.

Coch Thomas has selected the basketball team which will represent the high school this winter, and all the positions except one guard are practically settled. The team has been selected from almost a score of candidates and is as follows: Brooks, guard; Herb Koenig or A. Hogsberry, guard; Sprang, center; Gehring, forward; captain; Edson, forward; Reed, utility. This selection depends upon the eligibility of the members in their school work. That is, if they fail in their studies they cannot play on the first team. All of the classes have organized teams and there will be many inter-class games in the gymnasium this winter.

The football team is practicing nightly at Lawton park for the game with Topeka next Saturday. The boys will take a fast team to the near-by town and expect to give Topeka a hard run for the long end of the score.

The girls' basketball team is in fine shape for the game with Tri-State next Saturday. The team will leave the city at 4:40 Friday afternoon for Angola over the interurban.

The glee club together with a chorus of 200 voices is being drilled for the cantata, "The Wreck of the Hesperus," to be given in the high school auditorium on Dec. 12. There will be several other solo numbers on the program, one a haritone solo by Orin Jilison, a former teacher at the high school.

High School Notes.

The grades for the second five weeks of the first semester were given out yesterday.

The freshmen held a meeting last night to select a basketball team.

The question, "Resolved, That Congress should abolish tariff duties," was debated after school on last Monday. The affirmative won.

The freshman dance was a financial as well as a social success, and nearly $40 was realized above all expenses.

JUDGE H. B. TUTTILL HERE.

Jurist Who Gave Decision in Race Track Case in the City.

Judge H. B. Tutthill, of Michigan City, is among the visitors in attendance at the Scottish Rite convocation in Fort Wayne. Judge Tutthill is the jurist who rendered the decision in the recent Porter race track case, holding that Governor Marshall could not be enjoined from sending state troops to the track to stop gambling said to be in progress there.

How to Turn Time Back and be Youthful Again

Use this liquid face-lotion and you will find it more satisfactory than any powder or cosmetic. Dissolve 4 ounces of spumax in a half-pint of witch hazel (or hot water), and add 2 teaspoonful of glycerine. Apply to the face, neck and arms with the palm of the hand, and you need not bother again all day about your complexion. It affords protection against cold, biting winds, although it is so dainty and delicate that its use cannot be detected. It is especially fine for anyone with dark or oily skin, for it is a true complexion-beautifier and keeps the skin smooth, soft and velvety.

Anyone blessed with beautiful hair should by all means take the very best care of it they can. Dandruff will, in time, destroy any head of hair if permitted to remain. If necessary shampoo every week with cantilox. Dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, pour a little on the head, rub as you would with any other shampoo; then rinse well. Cantilox makes plenty of rich lather and thoroughly cleans the scalp and hair. It relieves itching and irritation of the scalp, and the hair dries quickly and evenly without streaking. It leaves the hair soft, bright and fluffy.—Adv.

First-Class Dental Work at a Reasonable Price.

When teeth are so far decayed that they cannot be filled they can be restored to usefulness, beauty and durability by the porcelain crown system. Porcelain work is one of the most beautiful operations in dentistry. It is a process of crowning teeth and matching the natural teeth so closely in shape and color that the work is imperceptible. Crowns of porcelain are so useful and comfortable to the wearer that it is soon forgotten that they are different from one's own teeth. It is astonishing to see how many roots and teeth that are considered worthless can be thus made good, comfortable teeth. Find what is required to put them in first-class condition. No charge for this artistic and practical—it is the true dental fine art—and covers a large number of cases.

Don't Forget to Order a Package of Beechwood Farm Sausage

WHICH GOES ON SALE IN FORT WAYNE FOR FIRST TIME, NOV. 30th, 1912.

Beechwood Farm costs a little more than ordinary Sausage, because it's an extraordinary product.

We would not make it as we do if we were putting out large quantities, because every pound is ground and seasoned just right by one man alone, who has made this Sausage for years. Not a bit of anything but pork from selected young hogs, properly fed, and the seasoning—salt, pepper and sage—enters into the composition of Beechwood Sausage.

A meal of Beechwood Farm Sausage will remind you of a day spent in the country. Try it and see.
